The Sound Of Silence

Empty. Lonely. Dark. Frightening. Endless halls. Bare classrooms. Fields of vacant seats. A forsaken place confined by cold steel and plaster walls, guarded by huge engulfing shadows.

Silent. Hushed. Haunting. Still. Soundless. Forbidding corridors untouched by noise. The deadening, terrifying sound of silence echoing through every room. Mute bells idle with waiting. An abandoned structure — motionless, noiseless, lifeless.

The shattering screech of powerful brakes. The sharp slam of a car door. The clatter of young footsteps on the pavement. Bright energetic laughter. Chatter charged with excitement. The clang of steel lockers. The thud of textbooks. Suddenly injected with youth, the cast-off cold deadness bursts with the sounds of life: eagerness, curiosity, friendliness, pursuit, activity, loyalty — the sounds of 1970 in Somerset Area High School.

Vanishes When Student Life Invades SASHS

The Sound Of '70: Thrills Of New Experiences,

Cheers Of Enthusiasm

The sound of '70 vibrated from every facet of school life. Nearing graduation, seniors founded Senior Day as class officers hoisted the green and white 1970 class flag — the symbol of senior pride and spirit.

As middleman, the junior class was traditionally characterized by loyalty and rivalry. Utilizing their tremendous ability and energy, united by confidence, juniors shone in scholarship, music, sports and leadership. Anticipation was their driving force.

For sophomores, it was the year of discovery. At first bewildered by a new environment, they met the beckoning cries of challenge and expectation with zeal and success. Initial debuts merged into active participation as they became a part.

How could three competing, self-centered powers fuse into one powerful united force? It happened. Common pride and enthusiasm for their school resounded from all they did.

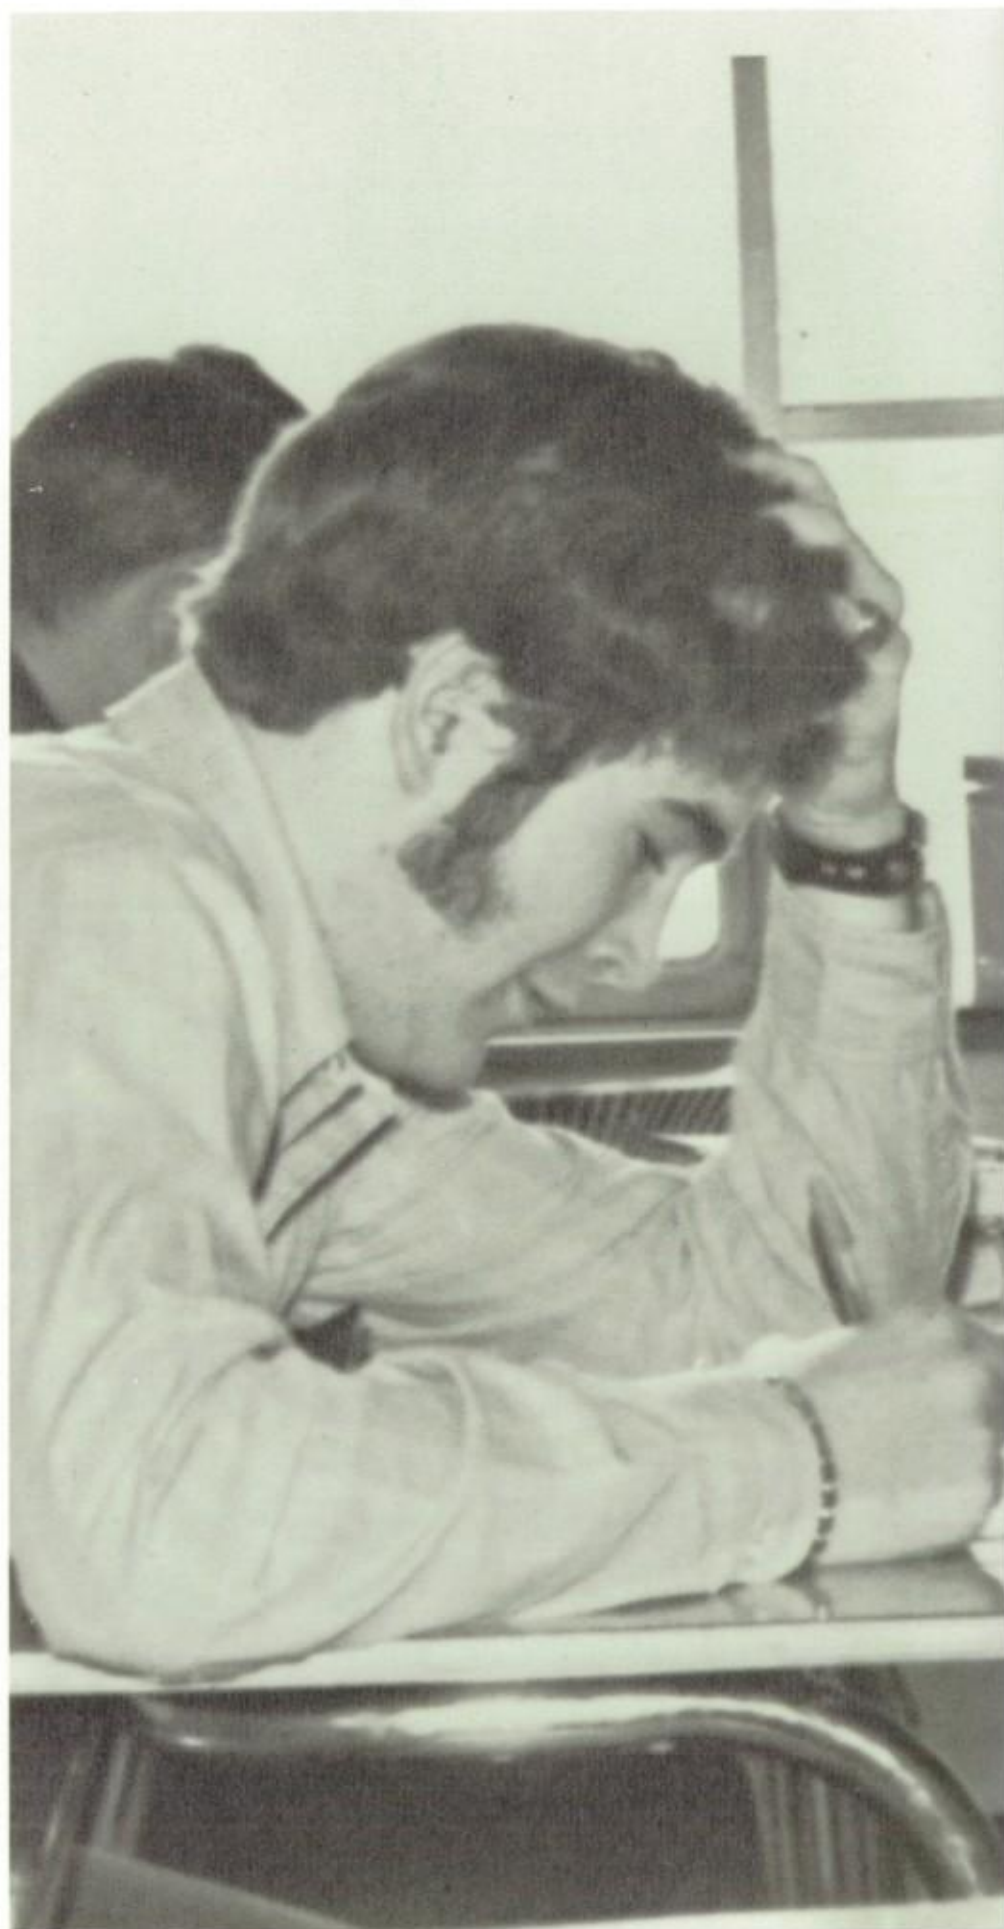

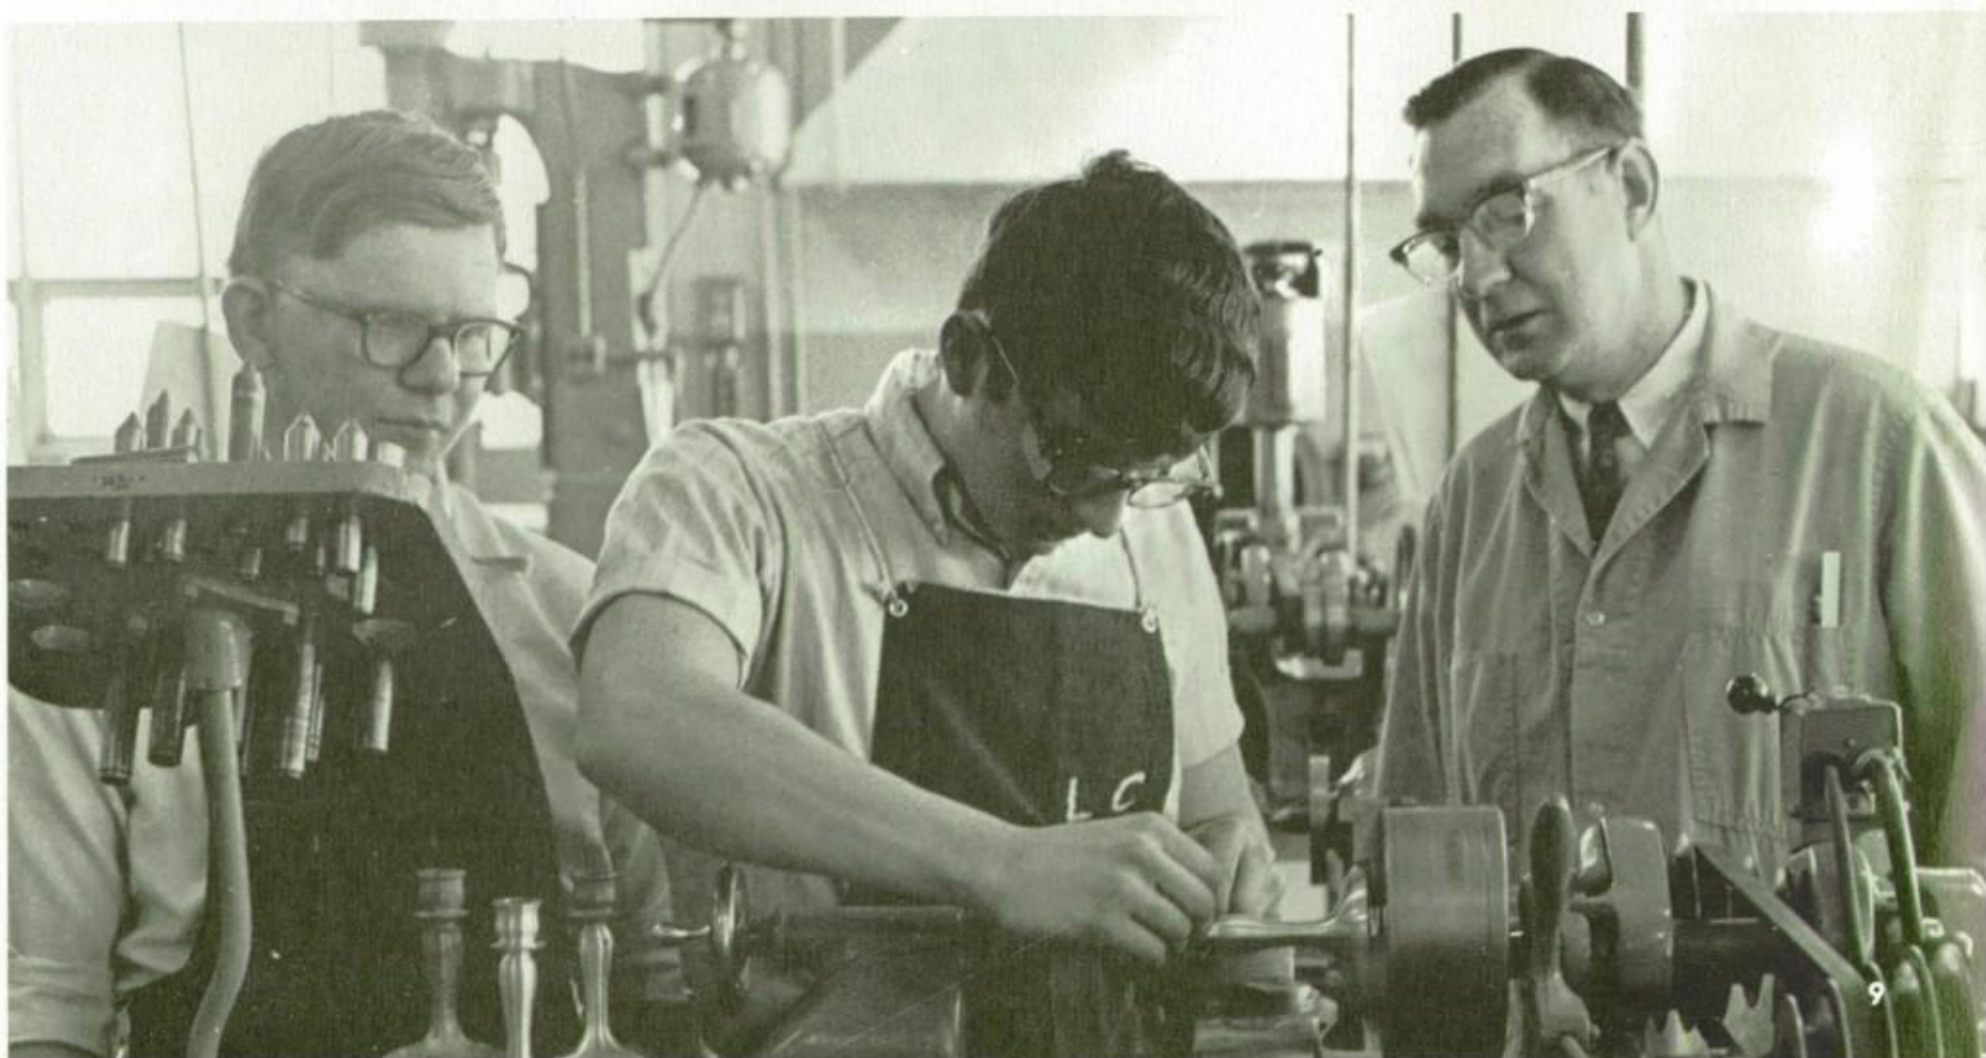

Achievement And Satisfaction Reward Frustration

The scale of life tips both ways. Many times failure deafens success. The sound of frustration and defeat. The agony of physical exhaustion after unrewarded practice and effort. When the best just isn't good enough. After hours of study, the inability to recall the answers on that crucial exam. The burden of overwork and endless days.

But, in the end, failure is stifled by the reward of active involvement. Frustration is muffled by the drive for exploration and learning. The echo of defeat is silenced by the invaluable bonds of competitive teamwork. The discords of study and endless days suddenly resolve at graduation. Finally, the welcome whirr of a repaired machine as knowledge is successfully employed. Understanding shorthand drills as skills progress.

Completion. Achievement. The satisfaction of growth and contribution. The sound of accomplishment.

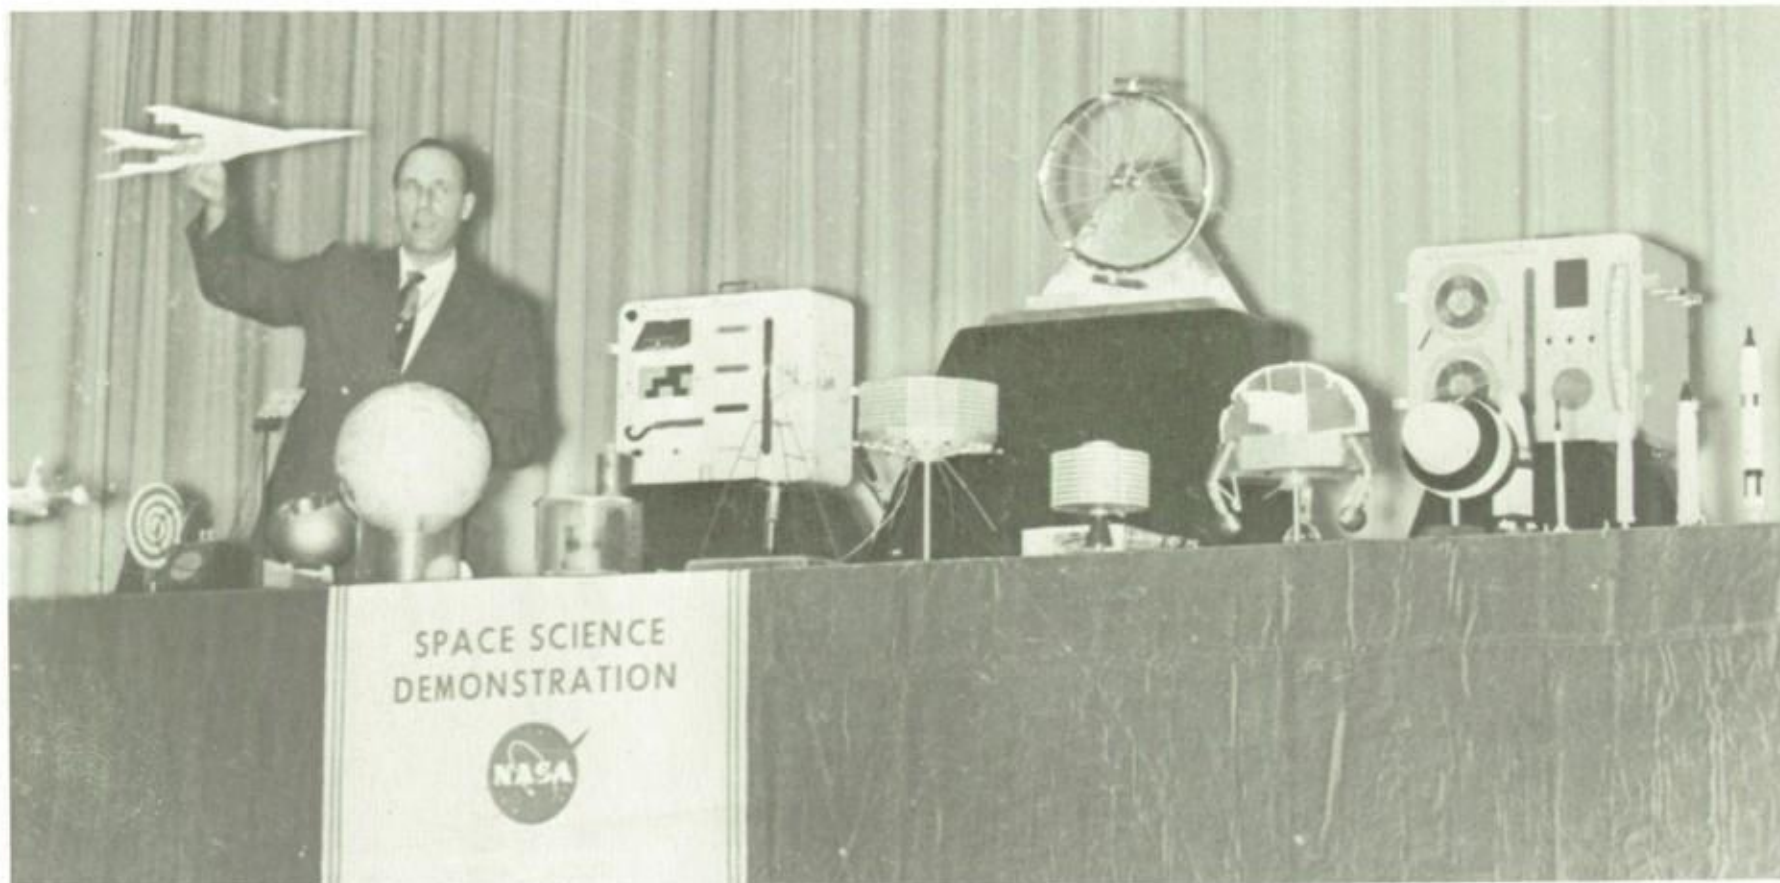

Magazine sales business managers David Beal and David Hillegas, surrounded by the colorful new magazine prize dogs, prepare to distribute them to deserving seniors.

Kaylynn Saylor, Debra Pile, and Patti Barndt portray the cackling witches in a junior English class production of Macbeth.

Junior cheerleader Amy McClintock begins a cheer at the pep bonfire held to spur the football team to victory.

After 1969's triumphant moon-landing, students were particularly fascinated by NASA representative Mr. Aronson, who demonstrated modern space flight equipment.

Assemblies Offer Enrichment In Various Areas

Enacting a new resolution to increase the number of assemblies this year, the student body was promptly introduced to a broad and diversified assembly program. Each opened with the student body singing our national anthem under the direction of Mr. Chester Singer and reciting the pledge of allegiance, led by Student Council President Carl Fritz.

A wide variety of content and purpose served individual tastes in the audience. The programs ranged from information, instruction and demonstration to stimulation and relaxation.

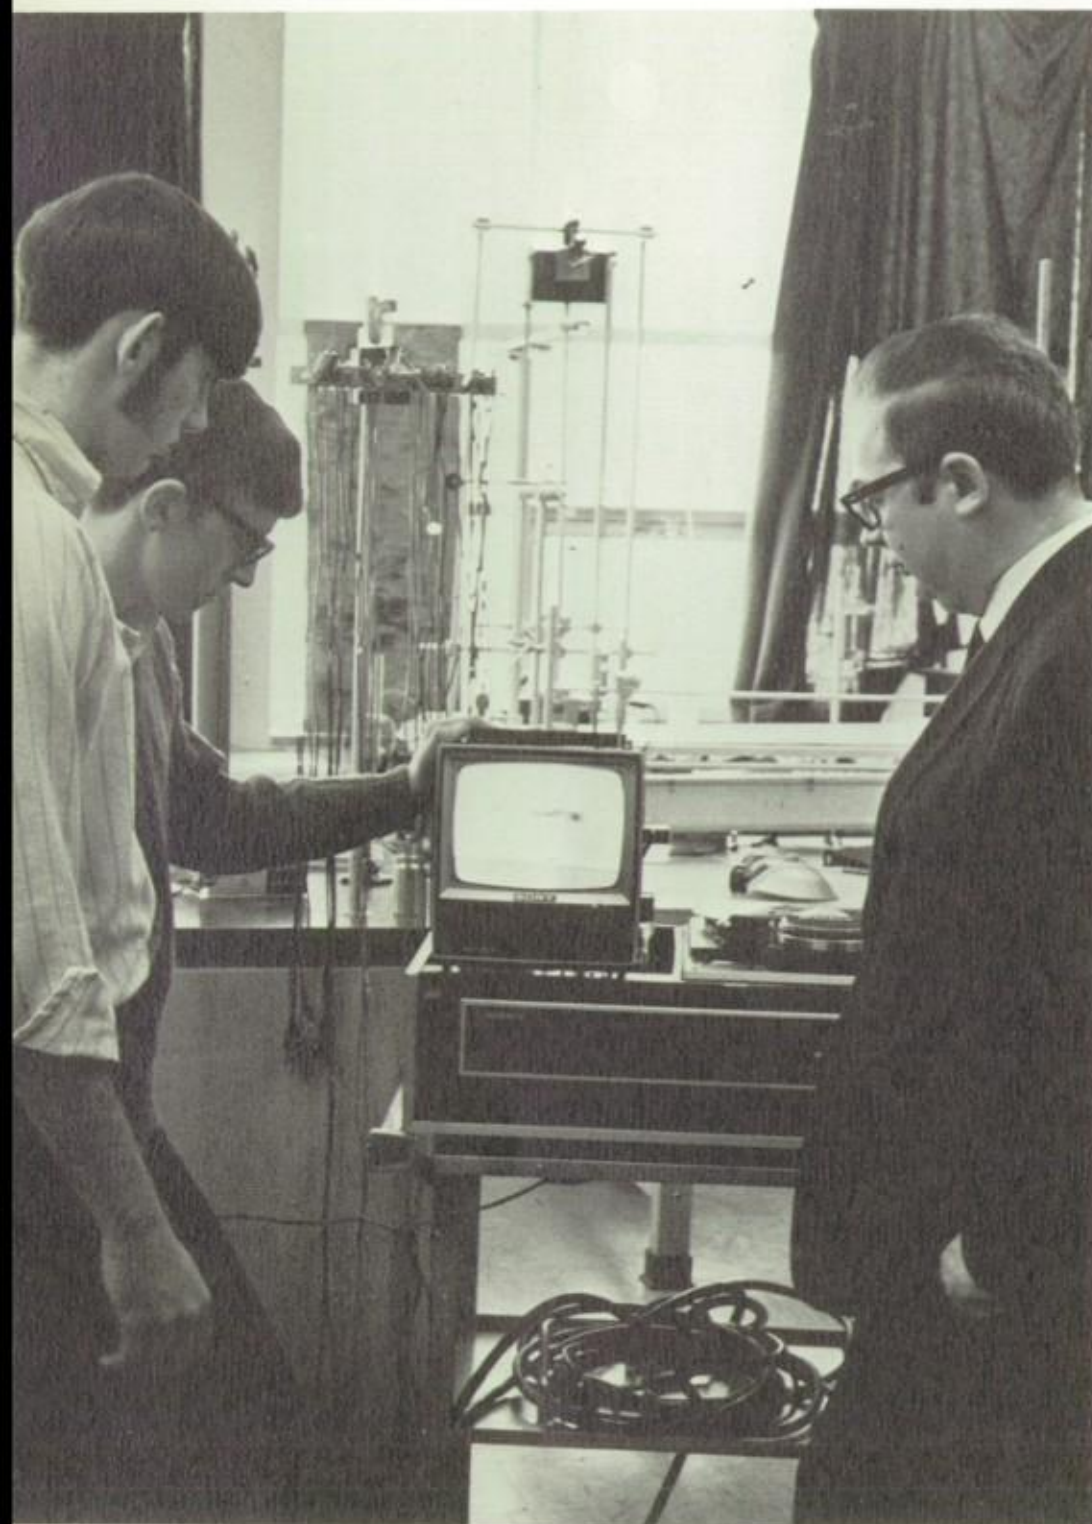

Sponsors included such local organizations as the Somerset Women's Club, Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary, who collectively sponsored an intriguing drug abuse program. Projects of several school groups were also promoted by stage and assembly facilities.

Assembly performers were comprised of professional entertainers and speakers as well as students themselves.

"Hey, man, drugs are for sick people!" emphasized Charles W. McPheeters, representing the National Council for Prevention of Drug Abuse.

New Equipment Speeds

On January 14 Somerset representatives again competed in the Scholastic Quiz at Johnstown. Selected by preliminary eliminations conducted by Radio Club were Patricia Snyder in literature and social studies, Thomas Mangne in art and music, Danny Hause in mathematics, and John Farkosh in science. The foursome lost to Forest Hills in their first appearance.

To increase rebounding proficiency, the basketball squad purchased a rebounding machine. Designed to develop individual skill and agility, its adjustable height enabled players to work at their own rate.

Both students and teachers welcomed the automatic copier. Purchased by a ten years' accumulation of library fine money, it copied sheets or books at reasonable charges per copy. Directions appearing when the switch was flipped on made its operation possible for everyone.

Junior Randy Welker, leaps to eject the ball from the new rebound machine as Jerry Barron, sophomore, awaits his chance.

Festivities Highlight First Homecoming Celebration

At the halftime ceremony Mr. Platt, senior high principal, crowns Mary Ann Hauger Somerset's first Homecoming Queen.

Under the direction of the Student Council, Somerset celebrated its first Homecoming on October 24, 1969. Festivities began with a pre-game parade through the business district, featuring the junior and senior high bands, varsity cheerleaders, floats created by school clubs, "Sammy Eagle," and the queen and her court.

Seniors honored Mary Ann Hauger as their first Homecoming Queen. Junior attendant was Barbara Stutzman, while Susan Shaulis represented the sophomore class. Escorts were Mark Clark, Larry Barron and Joseph Barbera. Between halves of the Somerset-Westmont football game the band performance centered on a tribute to the alumni, followed by the introduction of the royalty to the capacity crowd.

Following the game, a Homecoming Dance, dedicated to the alumni of Somerset High School beginning with the first eight graduates in 1888, was held in the senior high gymnasium. A memorable evening was history.

Members of the Ski Club, and friend, adorn the club's float as the parade travels down West Main Street.

After the Homecoming game, students danced to local group music in the senior high gym.

Maple Princess contestants were (on stairs) Mary Alice Powell, Jane Stoy, Susan Walker, Andrea Ellis, (below) Mary Ann Hauger, Deborah Hoffer, Joyce Ludy and Cindy Fritz.

Glowing with the excitement of a memorable night are the contestants as they congratulate Andrea Ellis, Somerset's newly chosen Maple Princess.

Andrea Ellis Captures Title Of Maple Princess

Eight Somerset High seniors were chosen Maple Princess nominees by their classmates. On December 8th they were judged in areas of beauty, poise and talent.

The contest evening rushed by, and the awaited moment finally arrived. Named Somerset's Maple Princess was Andrea Ellis.

For her talent number Andrea presented a monologue with original illustrations entitled "Anybody Here . . ." On February 14th the green-eyed, strawberry blonde headed for Meyersdale to compete with four other girls from schools throughout the county in the Maple Queen Contest. Although Andrea did not win the title of Queen Maple XXIII, she still came home a winner. An exceptionally talented and poised young lady had represented Somerset well.

Andrea dramatically concludes her talent number with "Yes — the good, they do die young."

In the thrilling seconds before Queen Maple XXIII is announced, contestants from Rockwood, Meyersdale, Salisbury, Berlin and Somerset squeeze each other's hands backstage in last-minute "Good Luck" and anticipation.

Before the Basketball Queen coronation, Rebecca Gnagy gives a few last-minute touches to her appearance prior to entering the gym. Susan Walker and Susannah Stumpf attended the queen.

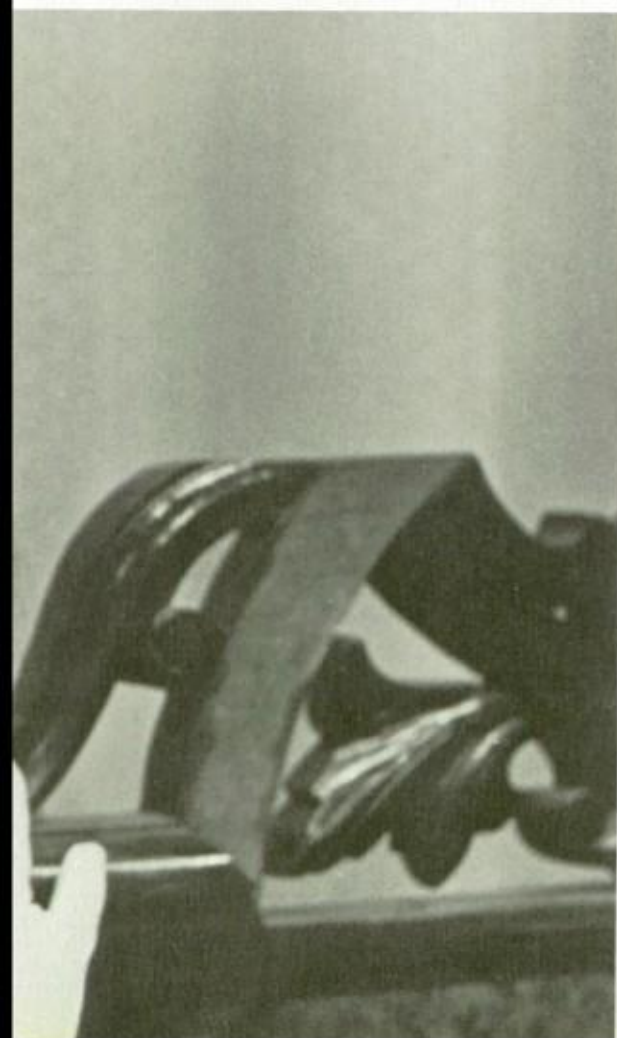

After the match, Wrestling Queen Amy Landis smiles as she leaves her throne. Attending the queen were Connie Aultz and Kay Narad.

Over Year's Various Athletic And Social Events

Joyce Ludy, chosen by the junior class, was crowned Junior Prom Queen. The prom court consisted of Barbara Oglevee and Carolyn Gambino.

Why One? . . .

Just beginning his senior year, Terry Rayman was killed on August 30, 1969, one of the victims of a tragic accident on a summer Saturday afternoon.

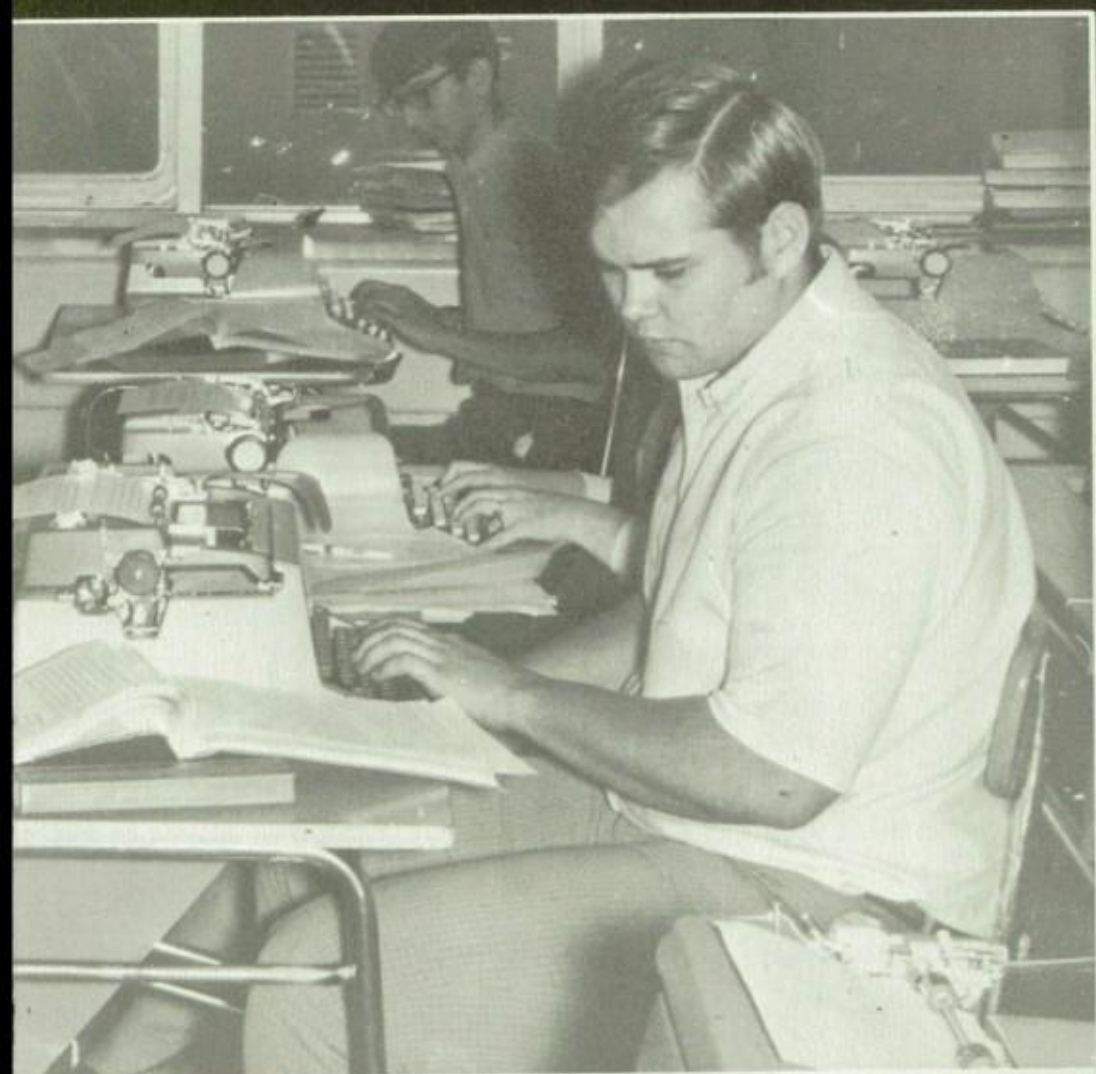

The loss is still tender in our hearts. We were caught unaware — never expecting death to strike us, to hurt so much. We feel an emptiness remembering a shy modest smile and sparkling eyes.

But we must not allow the tragedy to dominate us. We must thank God for the happy experiences knowing Terry has given us. And for the memories of him we will always cherish.

Board Discusses New Addition For Maple Ridge

MR. DONALD RININGER
Assistant Superintendent

Organizing all standard policies administered by our school system was the prime responsibility of the Somerset Area School Board.

The Board launched many long-range projects this year. The foremost plan discussed was the addition, housing a music room, art room and library, to Maple Ridge Elementary School. The Board hoped that the project would start before the end of the fiscal year. Included in their future considerations were plans for a new elementary school and a junior high school within the next seven to ten years, a swimming pool addition to Somerset Senior High and construction of the proposed vocational technical school.

Through the constant efforts of their administrators, students of the Somerset Area Schools have acquired a year of learning which aided them in their growth toward adult responsibility.

Office Secretaries Fill Many Different Shoes

Office secretaries at the junior and senior high schools played a vital role in school life. They performed important duties that were appreciated by both students and teachers. Work of the secretaries ranged over typing the daily bulletin, reading announcements, filling out work permits, keeping records, taking care of the correspondence, running office machines, and issuing admits to tardy students. Other aspects of their jobs included performing regular office duties, arranging for substitute teachers and compiling college transcripts.

Assisting many teachers by typing letters and making copies of tests were the teacher aides. They also helped the secretaries in some capacities. In addition to other duties, the teacher aides assisted in the library and worked in the attendance office. They also served as nurse's aides by dispensing aspirin and band-aids to those students needing emergency first aid when the nurse was visiting other schools.

Mrs. Maxine Linscott, Secretary to Elementary Principal; Mrs. Marion Schrock, Financial Secretary.

Mrs. Mildred Rosey, Senior High School Secretary; Mrs. Thelma Miller, Secretary to Senior High Principal; Mrs. Ruth Pritts, Secretary.

As one of her office duties, Mrs. Ruth Pritts compiles transcripts for future college students.

Mr. Ray Knupp, Mr. Earl Meyers, Mr. Dewey Meyers
Custodians.

Teacher Aides Assist In Schoolworkers' Duties

Maintaining the upkeep of the senior and junior high schools and surrounding areas were the custodians. In addition to keeping the buildings and grounds tidy, they painted, mowed the lawns, shoveled snow, and kept the boilers going. Custodians were regularly on duty during school days and evenings. Also, they were available at school at any time that there was a scheduled activity over weekends.

Under the direction of head dietician Mrs. Grace Carey, senior and junior high cooks prepared meals for Somerset students in their own and several elementary buildings. They aided with the Parents Night football banquet, the junior high honor roll banquet, and the high magazine salesman awards banquet.

Counselors Advise Students In Future Courses

MRS. EMMA HAY, Seventh-Eighth Guidance Counselor
Seventh Grade Sponsor.

Principal objectives of the guidance department this year were to prepare all junior and senior high school students for their after-graduation careers. Aiding the seventh and eighth graders in their school work was Mrs. Emma Hay. Mr. Richard Colliver, guidance counselor, kept a close check on his ninth and tenth graders' curricular schedules. Serving as the guidance counselor for juniors and seniors, Mrs. Pauline Glessner spent much time conducting individual student interviews.

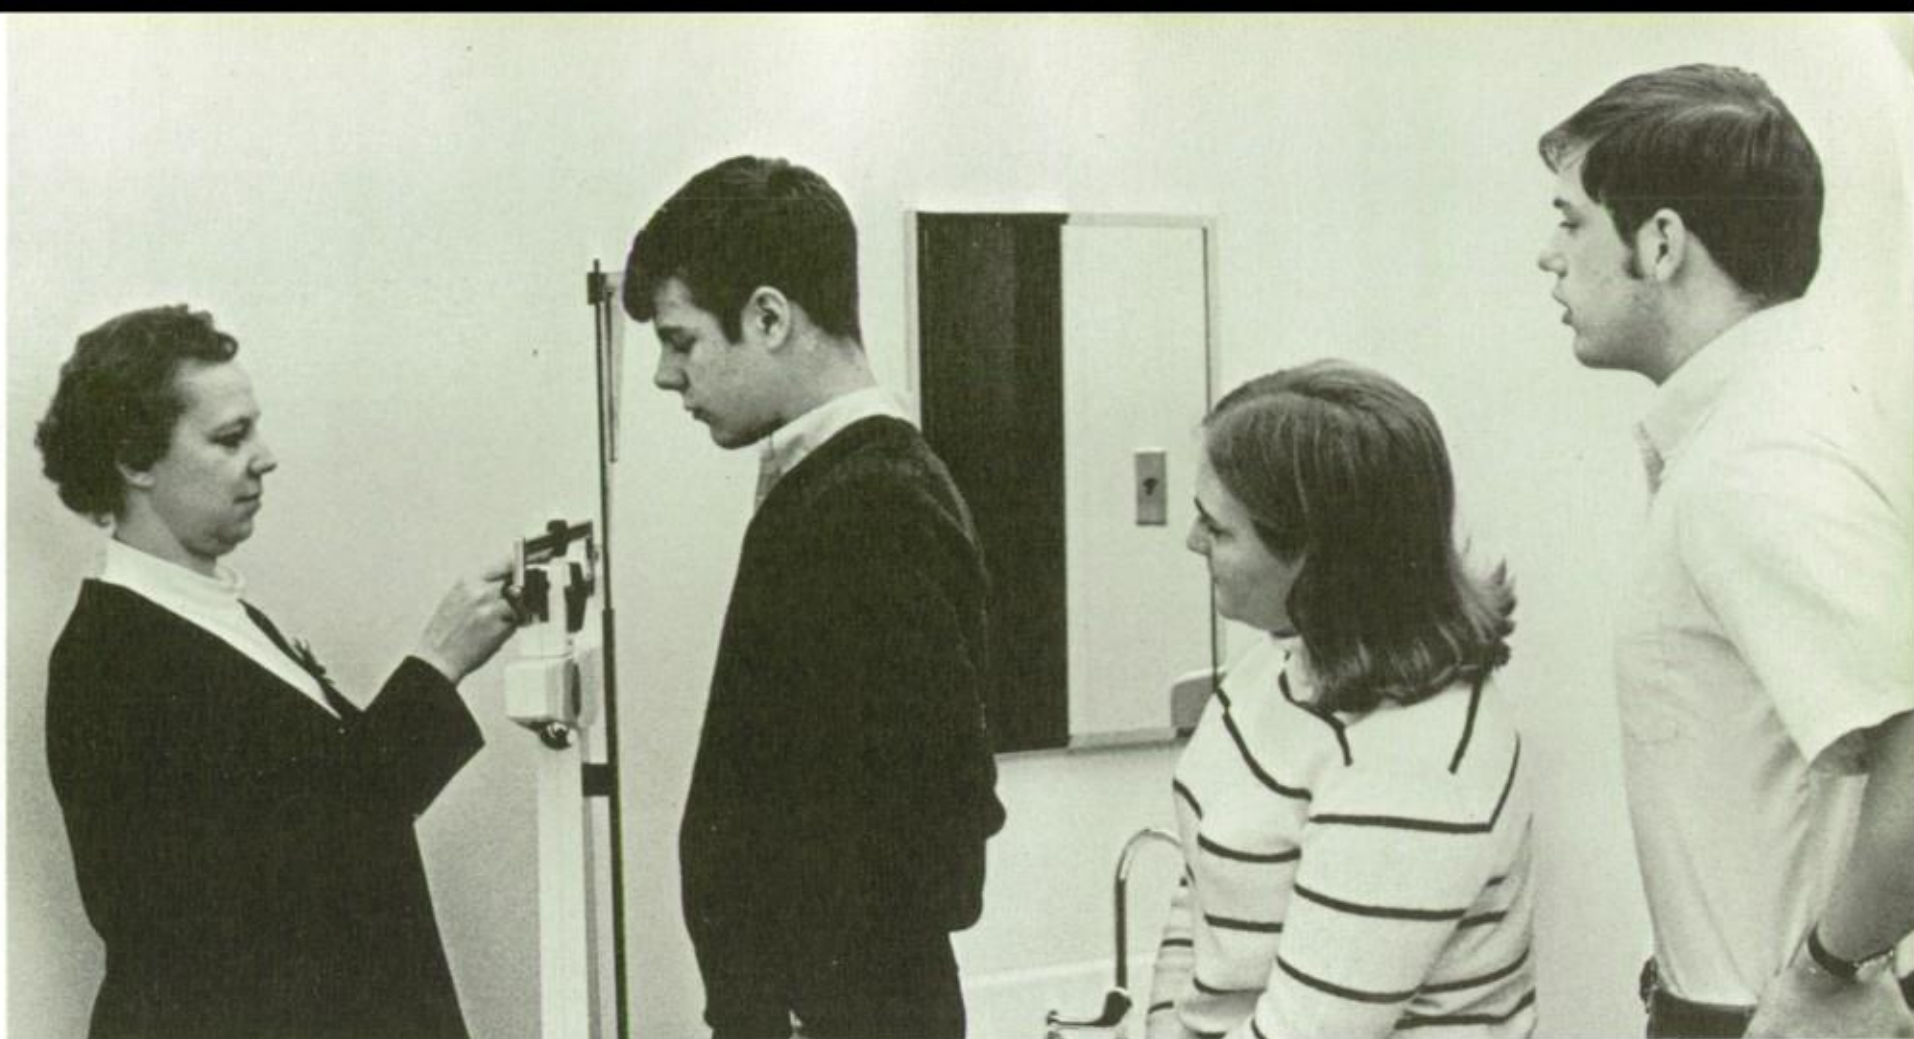

Checking eyes, ears, height, and weight was one of the basic jobs of Mrs. Shirley Keafer, the school nurse. She was the only faculty member employed by the Pennsylvania Department of Health this year.

Supplying and servicing audio-visual aids in the Somerset Area Schools came under the duty roster of Mr. Thomas Brown.

Students having any personal fears or problems often found themselves in the office of Mrs. Mary Manges, the home-school visitor and psychologist.

Varied History Studies

Ancient history of various countries around the globe lived again in studies of seventh grade students. Eighth grade research in American history was highlighted by special emphasis on Pennsylvania's past and its growth over the years. Freshmen learned about their rights, their duties and the structure of the American government in civics classes.

World cultures gave sophomores the chance to study the present and past history and peoples of many countries all over the world. How our government and country have grown and developed over the past two hundred years was noted by juniors in American history class, helping them to better understand the United States and our policies. Studying our democratic and economic system, its features, problems, and proposals as compared with other political and economic systems of government in the world today was interesting to seniors in problems of democracy and economics classes.

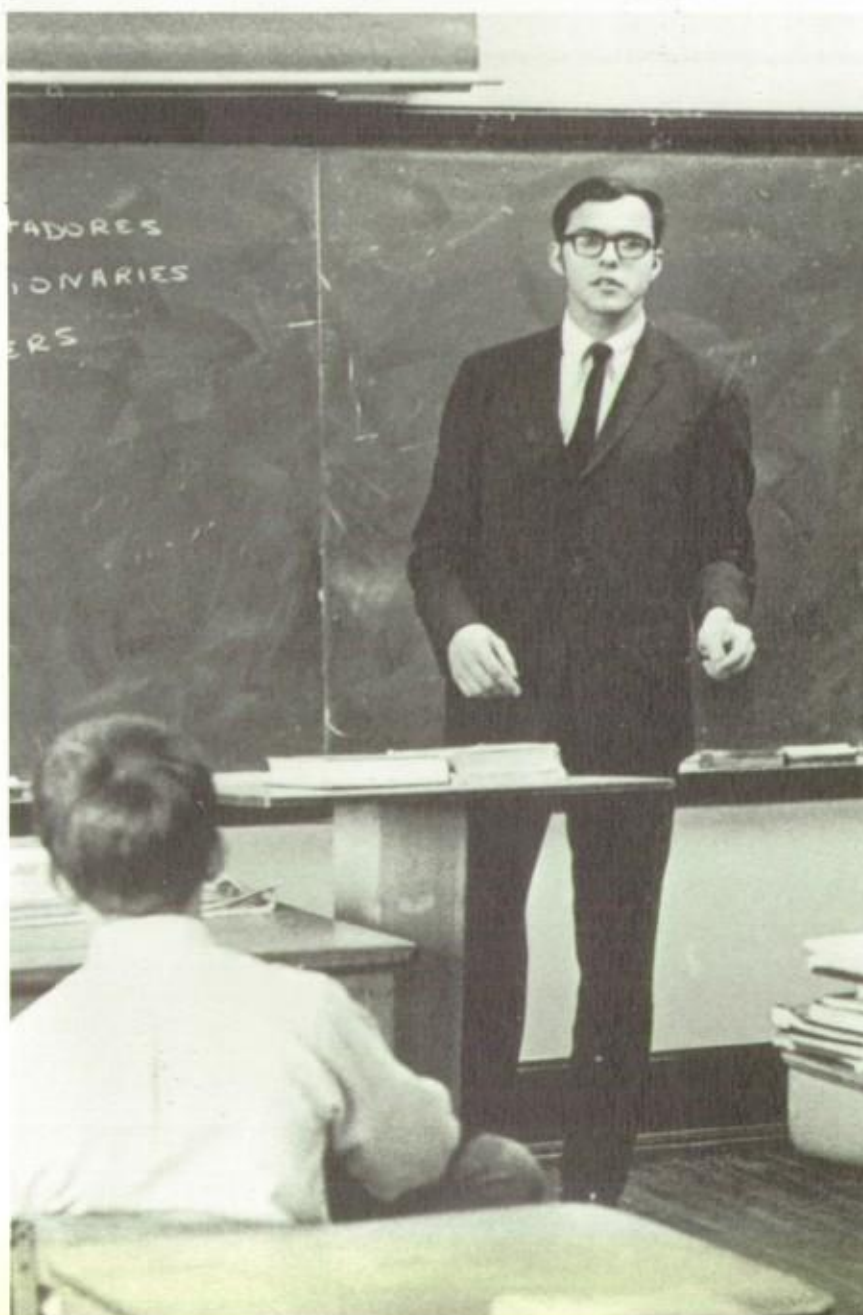

Seventh and eighth grade students learned about the locations, characteristics and customs of various countries in geography class. World geography, which was offered as a full year elective in the senior high, consisted of advanced study of the world and its peoples.

Mr. Egolf points out to Robin Warren the location of German troops in Yugoslavia during World War II.

Brenda Peaks selects appropriate news clippings as Belinda Wilson displays them on the civics bulletin board.

Mr. Russell's history students listen as he tells them of early life in America.

Challenge Students To Consider U.S. Government

In eighth grade geography, Paula Cane and Randy Rings study the different parts of Pennsylvania.

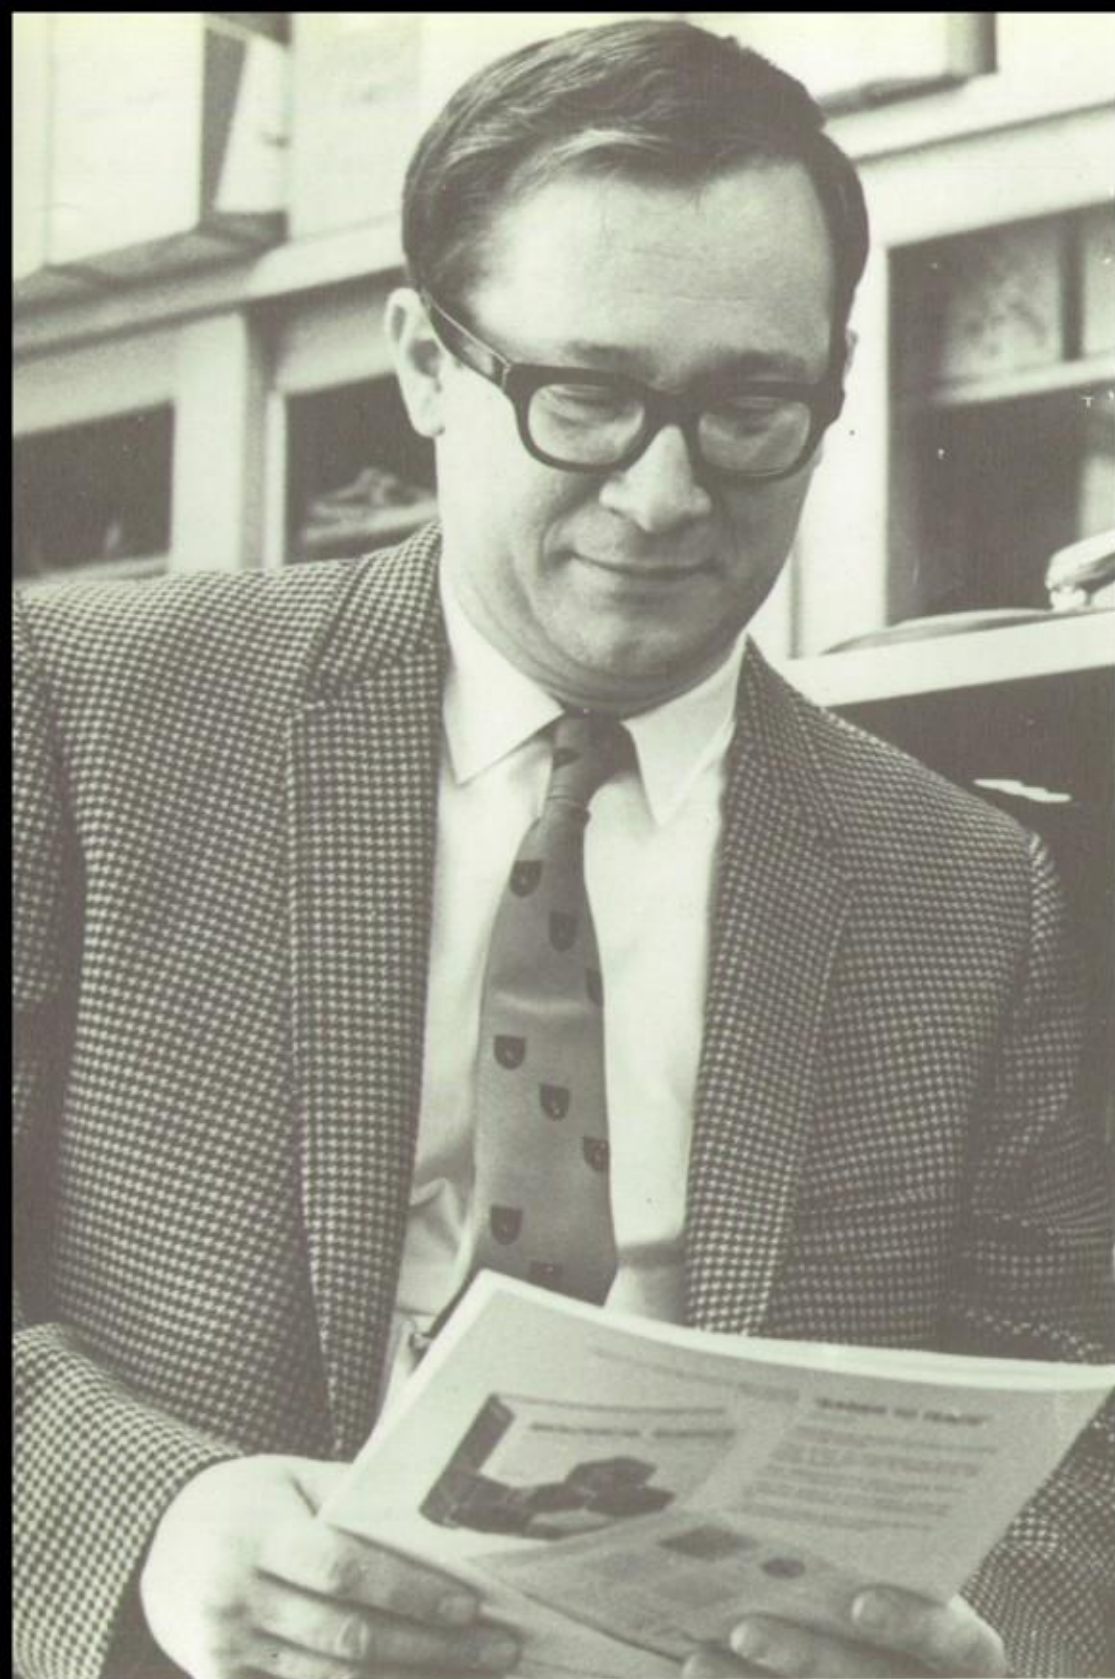

In U.S. History class, Debra Pile and Susanne Müller vom Hagen listen as Mr. Bressler points out the causes of the Civil War.

Seventh grade history students Susan Stahl and David Hay describe ancient Egyptian drawings to their class.

In Anatomy class, Amy Lutz and Amy Landis find that their assignment of locating and identifying each bone is made easier when their model reflects high fashion.

Video Tape Shows Us As We Are In Action

Electing lab biology, academic sophomores were shown proper procedure in the use of microscopes, the study of cells, and the growth of bacteria colonies. General biology included topics from the study of individual cells to genetics.

Chemistry students practiced the laws of matter, discovered the use of chemicals provided and used the slide rule and computer.

With new apparatus including the video tape recorder, the instrumentation methods of psychological studies scope and an instrumentation laboratory, the use of the physics lab was extended. Lectures and labs were based on the laws of mechanics, heat, light and electricity.

Advanced science students were offered the study of electronics, computer programming or other projects of special individual interest.

The laws of physics and chemistry were studied in physical science by students who did not elect either course individually.

Prospective nurses in anatomy classes examined locations of bone and tissue structure of the human body.

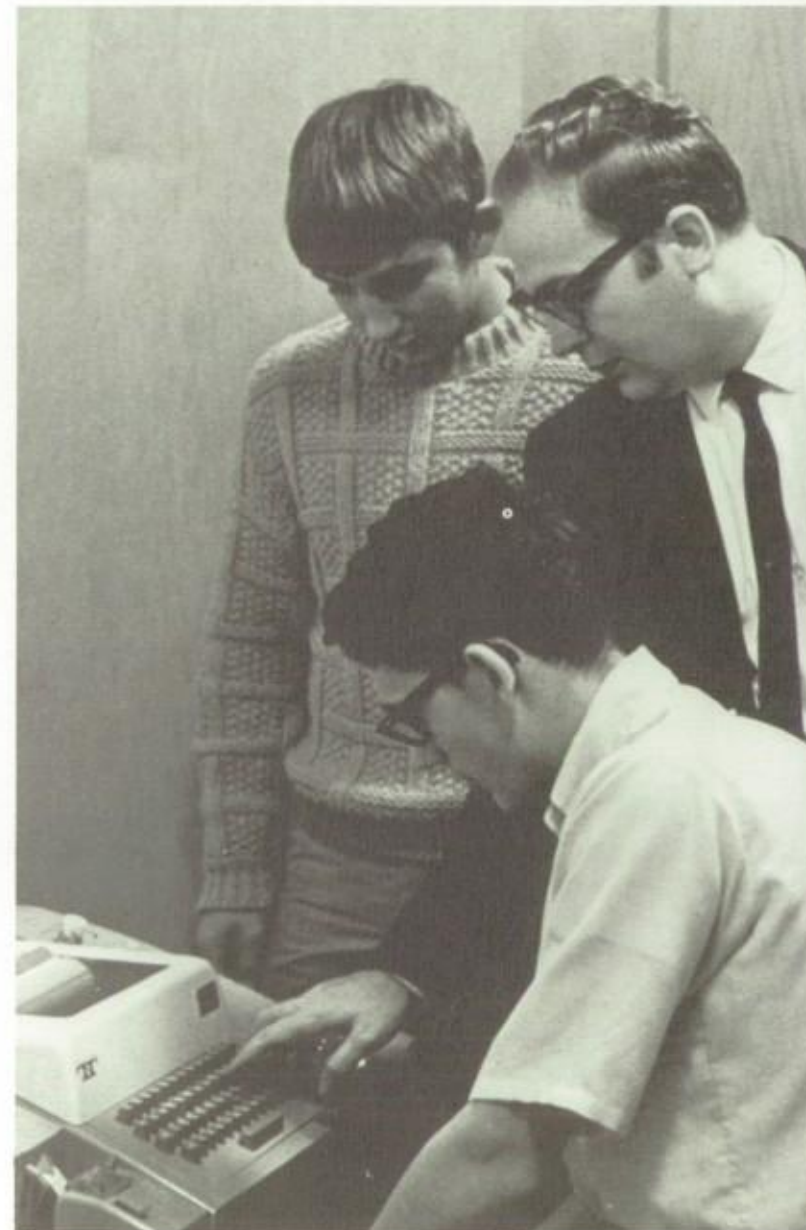

Separating lab from lecture room enabled freshman science students to have more lab study. Seventh and eighth grade students were introduced to the earth and life sciences.

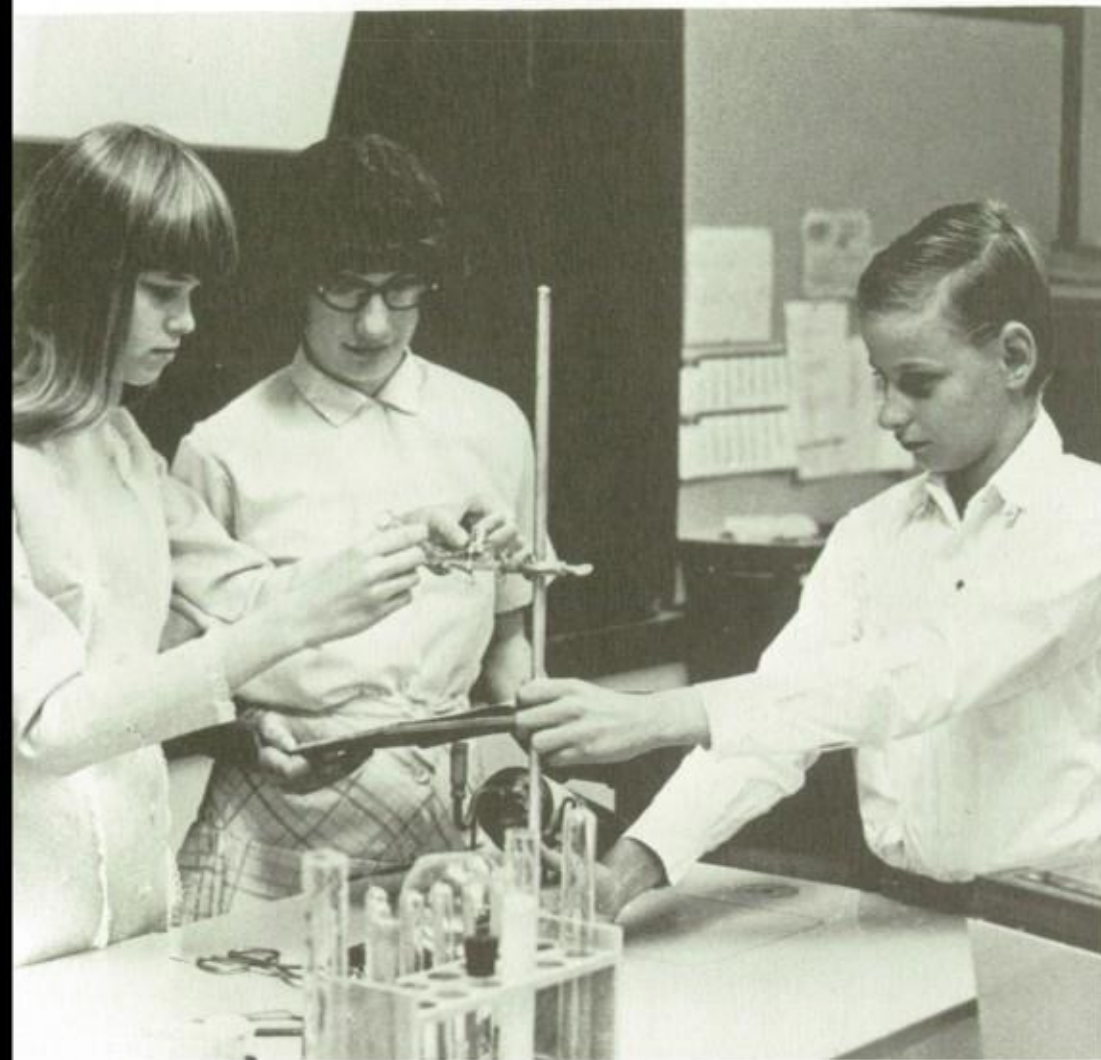

Mr. Baer demonstrates Fortran on the computer to physics students Brad Winters and John Farkosh (seated).

As Mr. Rhodes supervises, Sally Trent is amazed at what she sees through the microscope while Ron Stern waits to take a look.

Amy Lucas questions Mr. Gould on the use of the slide rule.

Junior high students Marla Collins, Sandra Barron and Paul Shaw set up the necessary apparatus to carry out their science experiment.

Rewinding the video tape machine purchased this year for class use is Mr. Gould, chemistry teacher.

William Brubaker instructs Pamela Rayman on the method of calculating radioactivity given off by certain materials.

Advanced Math Orients College-Bound Students

Junior high mathematics courses began to build a firm foundation in the basic mathematical concepts. Seventh graders strengthened their ability to calculate with speed and accuracy, while eighth graders delved into modern mathematics. Freshmen solved for unknowns in Algebra I.

A wide variety of courses were available to interested senior high math students. Those following the academic course learned the relationships of points, lines and planes in Plane Geometry. Quadratic equations and the binomial theorem were conquered by Algebra II students. Trigonometry, studied by juniors and seniors, presented the ratios found within right triangles. Any senior who had completed trigonometry and had maintained a B average in all previous courses was invited to tackle a course in Advanced Mathematics. Students enrolled in the course were automatically eligible for membership in the math club, Mu Alpha Theta.

Business Math stressed speed and accuracy of basic operations in preparation for future business careers.

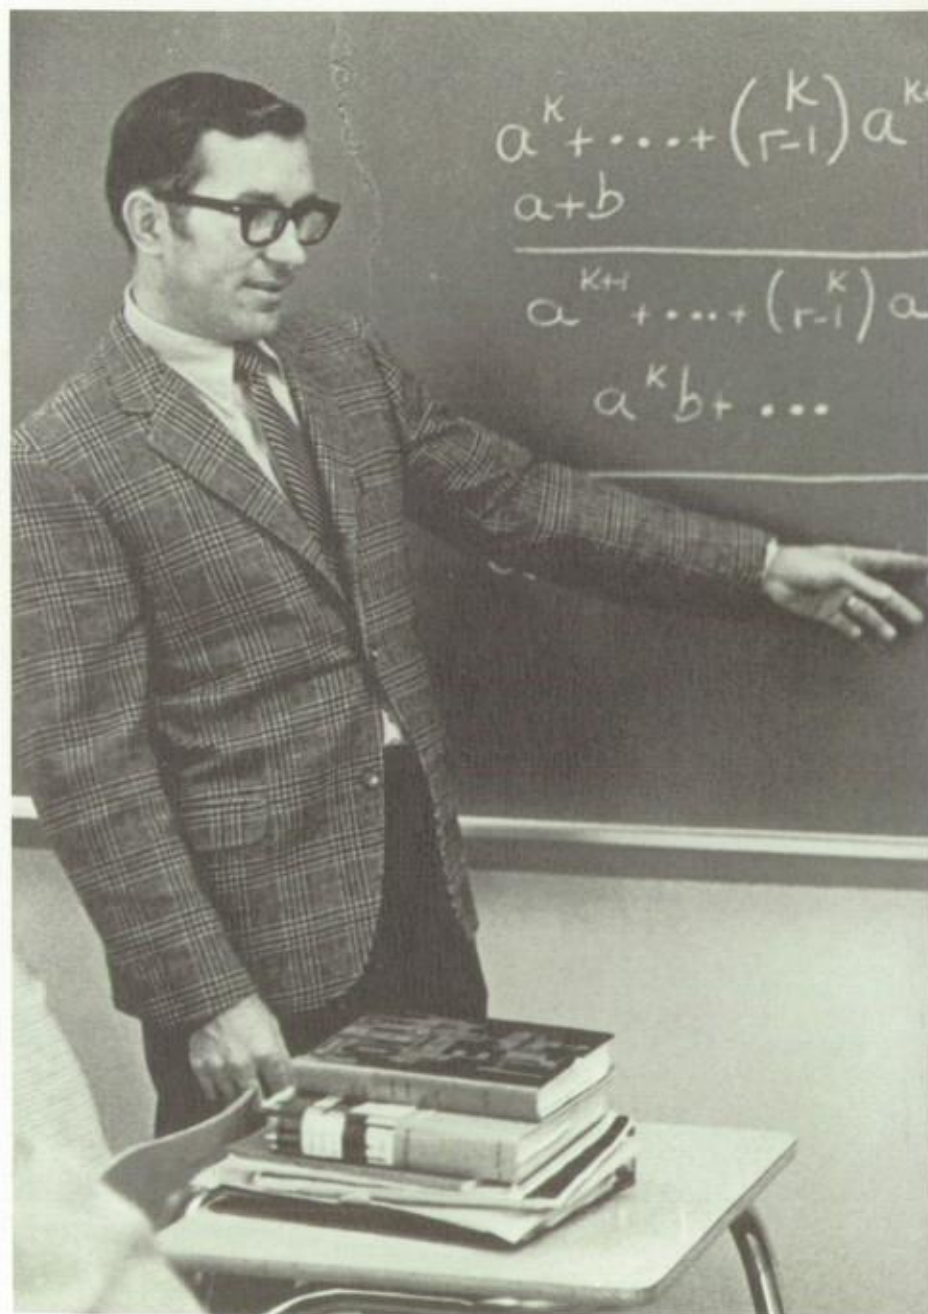

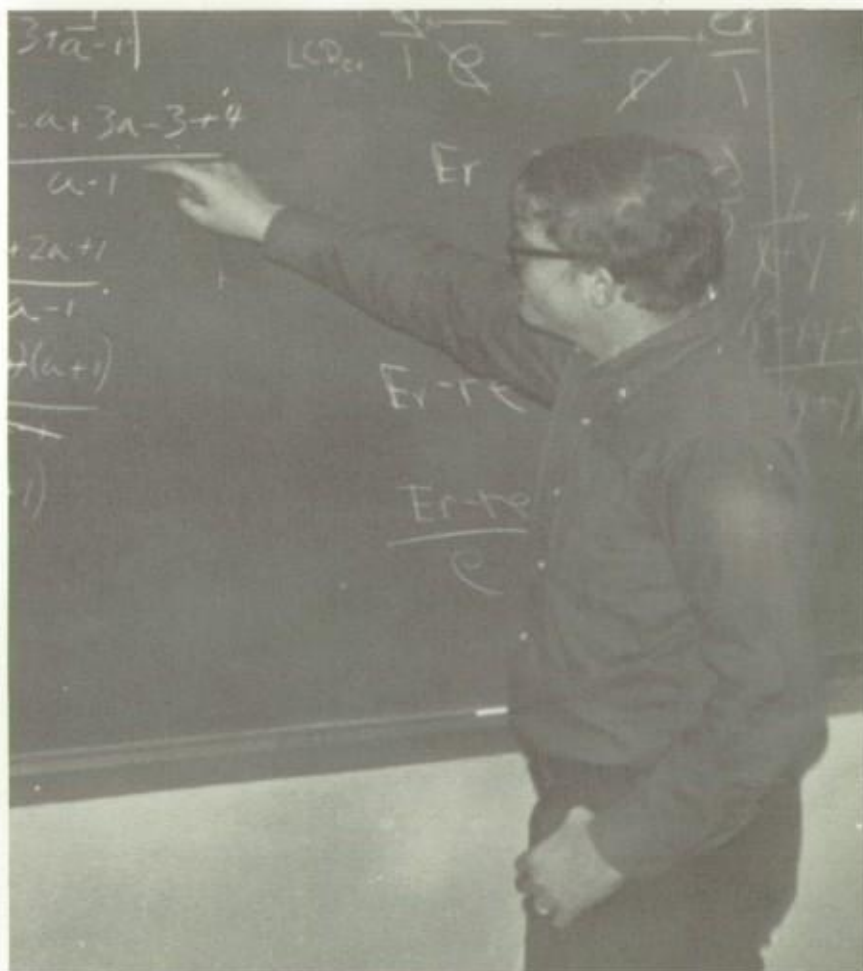

Offered to prospective nurses was a course in Nurses Math in which conversion from English to metric systems, percentage problems, and fractional and decimal equations were practiced.

Math II was available as a further study of modern mathematics.

Mr. Kuhlman demonstrates to Howard Berkey, Jeff Bender and Mary Dosch how trigonometry problems can be solved with the printing calculator.

Mark Erickson simplifies a complex expression for his Algebra II class.

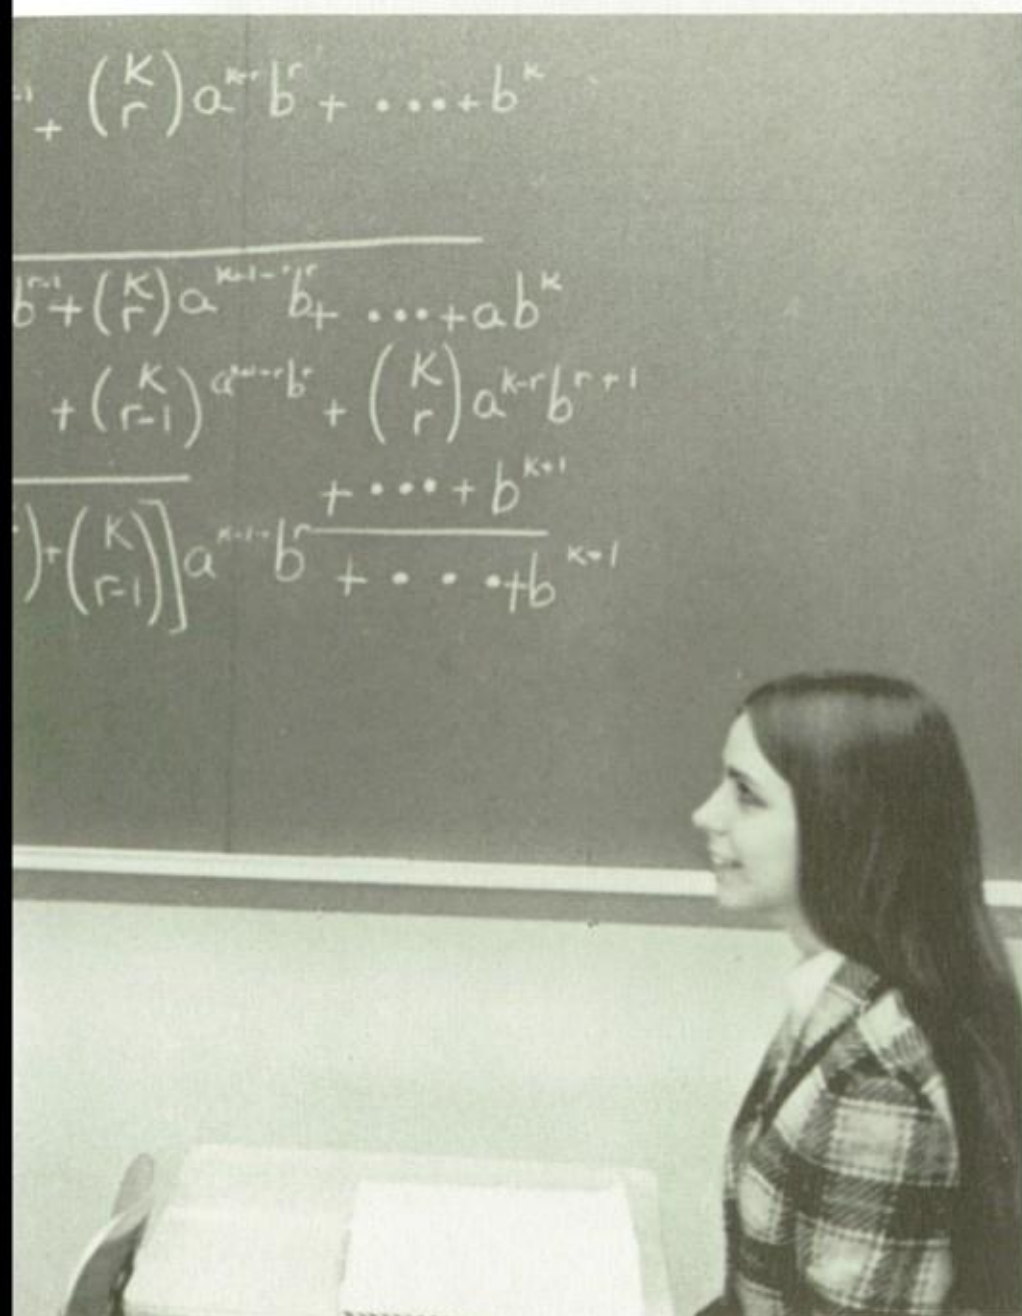

Mr. Urbain shows that geometry can open a whole new field of ideas for Suzy Spangler and Chris Hay.

Sudi Stumpf, advanced math student, observes intently as Mr. Kuhlman explains the technique used in solving a mathematical induction.

A moment of total concentration by Algebra I students is observed by Mr. Bruno.

MRS. NADINE KNUPP, English II, IV

Seventh and eight grade English students participated in the SRA Laboratory to build reading speed and comprehension. Grammar, composition and literature were the main components of freshman and sophomore English.

Sophomores chose English Courses for their junior and senior years from a general, vocational, business or academic program.

Juniors and seniors studied vocabulary, grammar, composition and public speaking in journalism, academic English, vocational English and general English. Business English students polished grammar, public speaking and spelling ability.

Junior literature classes read biographies, novels, short stories and poetry written by American authors. Examining great works of English literature occupied the senior literature classes.

Senior journalism students produced the school newspaper "The Eagle's Echo" and the yearbook the Eaglet.

Foreign Languages Stress Grammar And Culture

Foreign languages offered students the chance to broaden their knowledge of the customs and language of another country. They also offered information concerning the culture and history of the country.

In a nine-week course, seventh and eighth graders studied Spanish. They concentrated mainly on grammar and customs of Spanish speaking countries. Freshmen were offered a choice of Spanish, French or German for a full year's study.

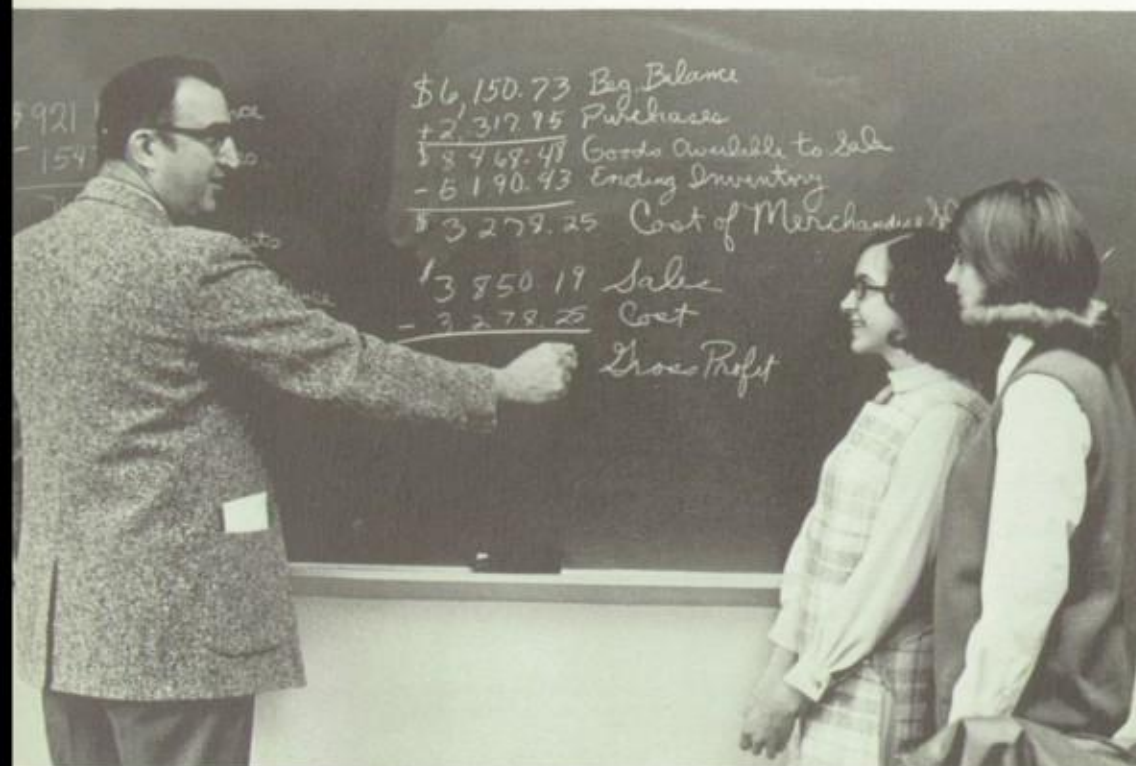

French, German and Spanish were again offered in senior high, where students continued in their language specialty for four years or transferred to another language. Students studied the grammar, culture, literature and customs of the country, as well as songs, poems, and conversation.

Consumer Education, Business Law Serve As

Business education students had three areas to choose from: secretarial, clerical, or bookkeeping.

General business, Typing I and II, business math, and business English were required subjects in all areas. Business English stressed correct grammar and punctuation. Juniors reviewed fundamentals in business math.

Secretarial students specialized in Shorthand I and II and office practice. The shorthand listening laboratory aided in individual progress in writing and transcription.

Clerical students could pursue retail sales, bookkeeping or shorthand I, in addition to clerical practice.

Bookkeeping students learned correct methods of keeping financial records. They could also elect sales and clerical practice.

Consumer Education, business principles and management, and business law were offered as electives to business students.

Personal typing, notehand, business law, Bookkeeping I and Shorthand I were available to academic students.

Taking yearbook subscriptions, listing patrons, and organizing the senior magazine sales were responsibilities of the Eaglet business staff, composed of senior sales students.

Boys Also Elect To Take Cooking In Home Ec

In building a cabinet, Ed Hine learns that the correct type of joint is crucial.

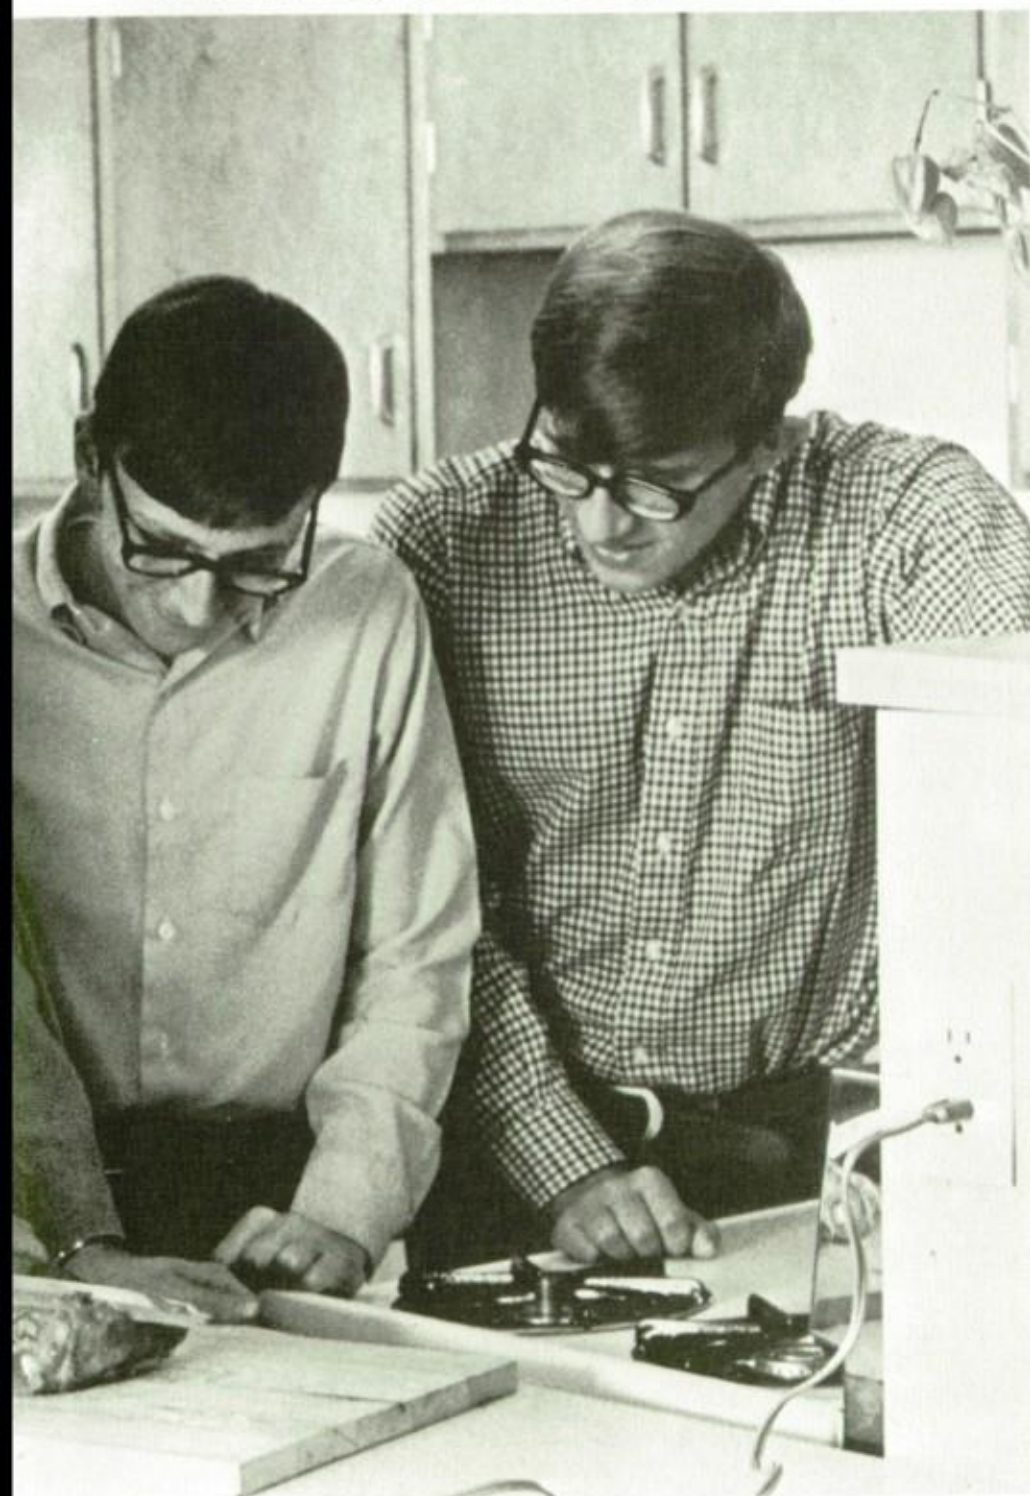

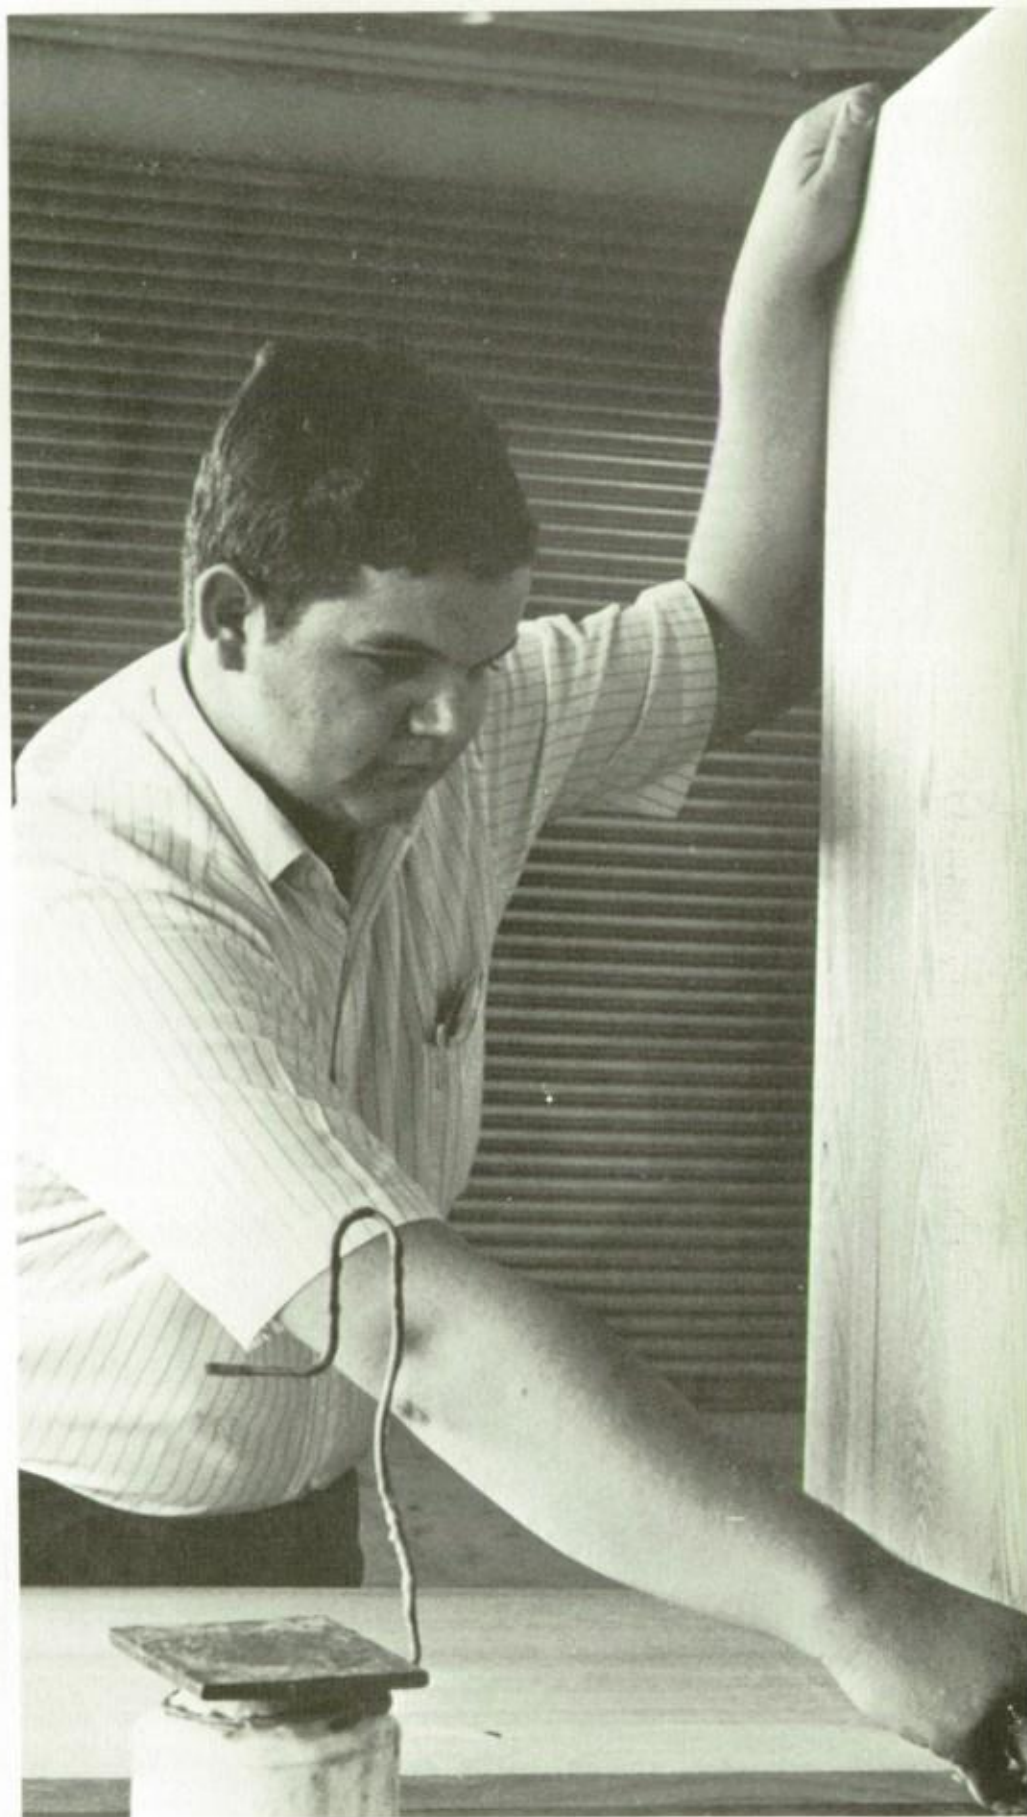

During the nine-week vocational block junior high boys constructed tables, gunracks and ashtrays or worked on projects of their choice. In home economics, girls gained experience in proper cooking methods and basic sewing skills.

Good farming operations and agricultural business by computer were practiced by senior high boys in vocational agriculture. Eugene Barron and Roger Hay received the FFA Keystone Award at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Automotive mechanics featured automotive maintenance and repair. Industrial machine shop students emphasized safety while working as a group on their senior project, a plastic injection machine.

General and vocational home economics featured the preparing and serving of nutritious meals. Clothing construction and child care, including a six-weeks nursery school, were also important units. Nutrition was offered to prospective nurses. Boys could elect a special foods class, which met once weekly.

The boys' home economics class provides an excellent place for John Blackburn, Bill Ross, Craig Alexander and Dan Riggs to eat up the profits.

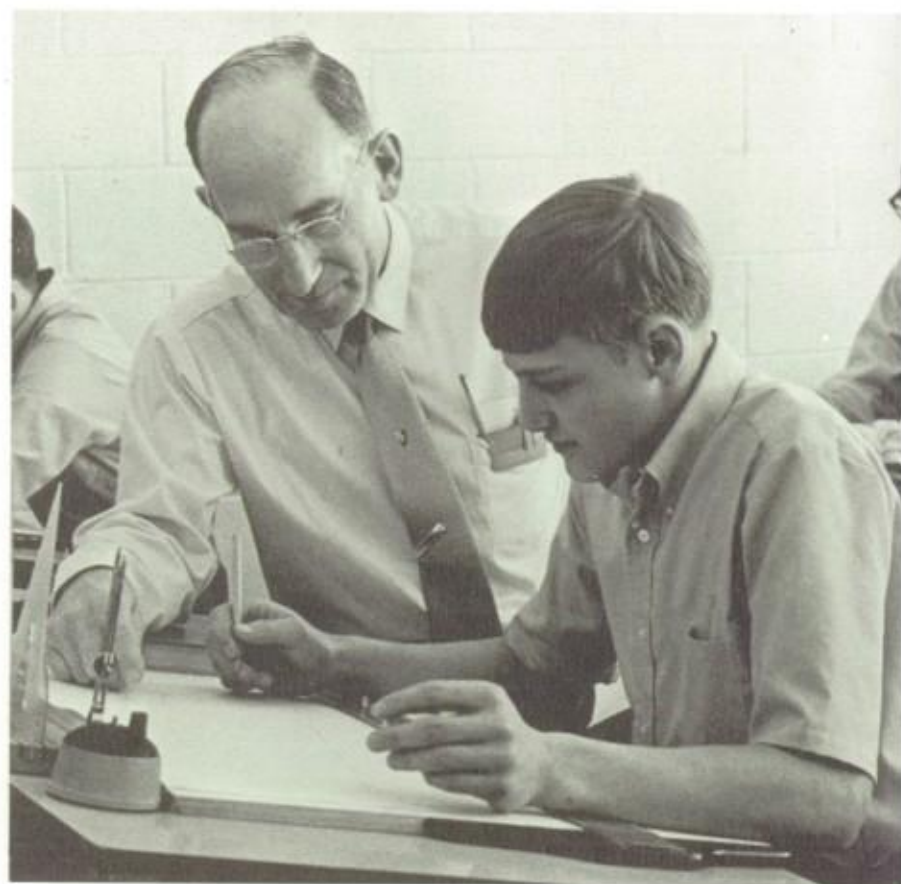

Agriculture Teaches Proper Farming Techniques

In junior high shop, Mr. Waltermire aids Daniel Mulhollen in sawing metal for his nine-week project.

Special Ed. Students Work In Area Businesses

Special education students of the junior high concentrated on practical experience for everyday living. They covered subjects including newspaper reading, arithmetic, general science and local geography. They also practiced good speaking, handwriting and letter writing. Filling out checks and job applications and making out budgets provided practice for future employment. Study of relations with family, employers and friends were included in their classwork.

In the senior high, special education students studied practical math, English, history and reading. Introduced to the work experience program, they worked in nine-week periods for a total of four different employers in Somerset during the year. These jobs included factory work, welding, and experience in stores and garages. To some students these jobs promised future employment.

Art Students Further Creativity On Field Trips

Senior high Art I and Art II students followed a course approved by the Evaluating Committee of the Middle States Association. Students electing Art III, following individual abilities and interests, carried on special projects in specific areas. Several fields they delved into were sculpture, jewelry, ceramics, painting, graphics, fabric decorating and weaving.

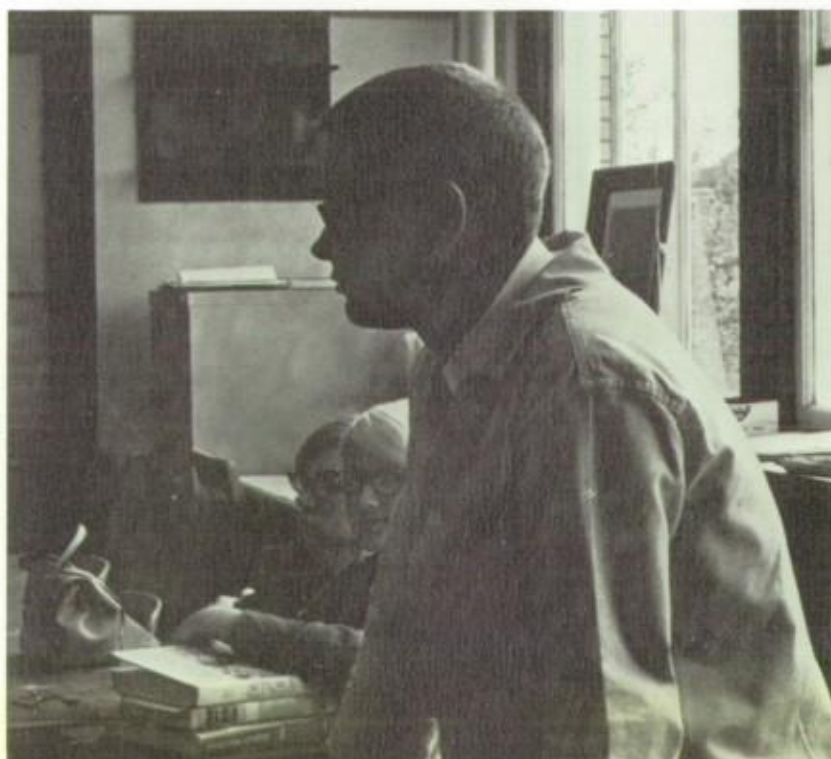

Junior high art students were introduced to many of the same areas as senior high art students, although not on such an advanced level. Junior high students also covered architecture and stitchery in their annual nine-week art course.

Under the direction and guidance of Mr. Paul Beal, senior high art students designed and made invitations, program covers, and posters for special events. Seniors were responsible for designing and constructing the stage set for the senior class play.

Students In Music Appreciation Compose Pieces

Junior high music classes met twice weekly. Singing, discussing and listening to songs comprised these classes. Qualified students could also elect band, chorus and orchestra.

Interested senior high students were offered a class in music appreciation. In this course students studied in depth different styles of music, as well as musical history and composition.

At football games the senior high band performed interesting and difficult formations. They marched in many parades and presented the annual spring concert.

Mixed chorus gave both a Christmas and a spring concert. the orchestra gave a spring concert, and with the chorus provided special music at Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. On three one-day tours they performed at Berlin, Turkeyfoot, Meyersdale, North Star, Shanksville and Shade high schools.

Senior high students learned the basics of driving by attending driver education classes designed to teach future drivers operation of an automobile, meanings of road signs and awareness of traffic safety. On permits, students were put behind the wheel to practice the skills of driving firsthand. Juniors and seniors received actual road experience as they drove either automatic or standard shift cars and learned the traffic laws of Pennsylvania.

Proper diet, exercise, good grooming, health habits, causes and cures of disease and body structure were covered in three yearly nine-week courses by junior high students. Sophomores concentrated on the function and structure of the heart, first-aid techniques, and the effects of alcohol, tobacco, and drugs on physical and mental faculties. They learned mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by practicing on the health dummy Resuscie-Anne.

Students Build Better Coordination And Stamina

Under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Coleman, senior high girls' gym classes practiced archery, volleyball, impressionistic dancing and paddleball. Intramural bowling was an after-school extra.

The senior high boys with Mr. David Maize as their instructor developed speed and accuracy in paddleball. Boys' classes also learned and practiced the skills of football and basketball while varsity team members served as coaches and referees.

In junior high Mrs. Jean Gerber taught tumbling and basketball. Classes always included calisthenics for warm-up exercises.

Mr. Edward Joseph stressed participation in wrestling, basketball, track and gymnastics to his junior high boys' classes.

Physical fitness tests ended the year with trophies awarded to the highest scoring girl and boy in junior and senior high.

Seniors Finish Their High School Careers With

The Class of 1970 had many tense but exciting moments finishing out the sixties and sounding into the seventies. Their Soph-Senior dance, "Over the Rainbow," and Junior Prom, "Gone with the Wind," given for the 1968 and the 1969 seniors, set the pattern of accomplishments that carried over into their final year.

Topping the $15,000 magazine goal with a record-setting $17,346.67, successful senior salesmen cheered their victory at the mortgage burning.

Patricia Snyder, Danny Hause, John Farkosh and Thomas Mangne represented Somerset in the Johnstown Scholastic Quiz. Joanna Glessner was a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist. All served as outstanding examples of senior scholastic ability.

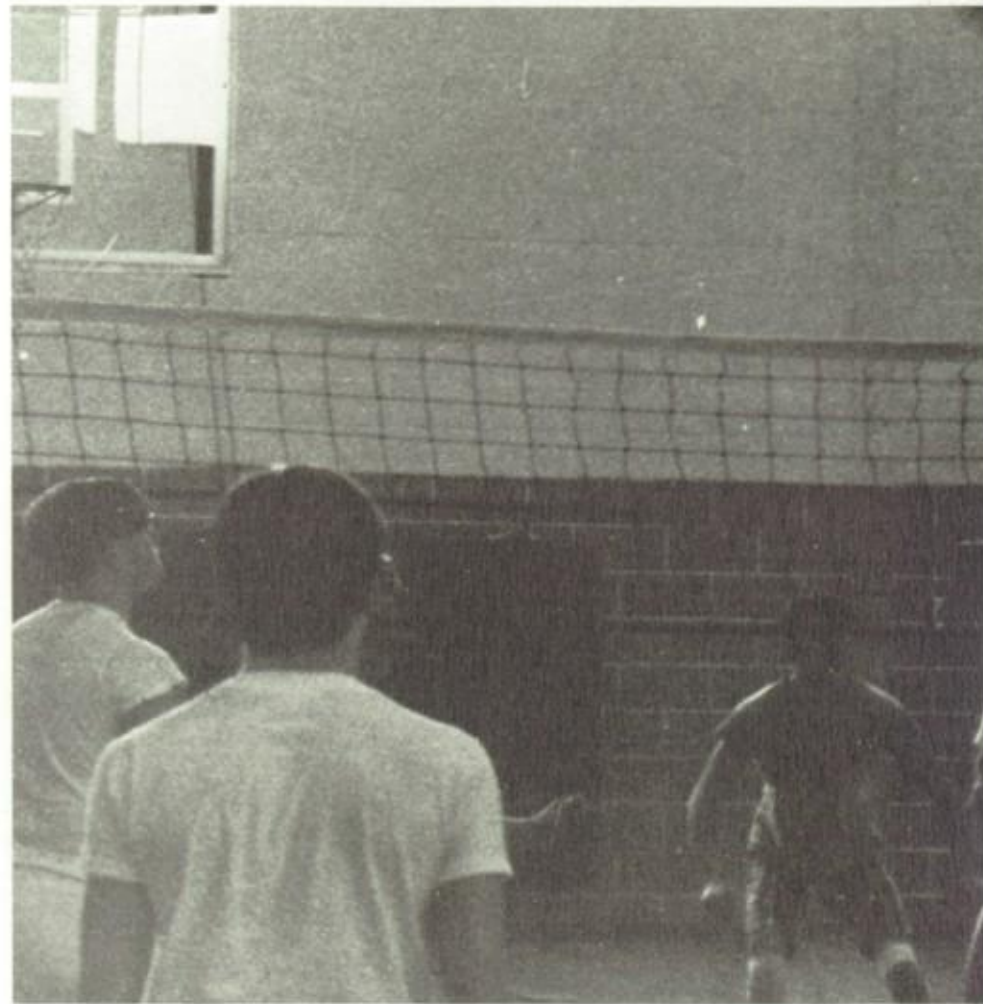

Under the direction of Mr. Charles Morocco, 232 seniors completed the civil defense course.

The auditorium roared with laughter as the Senior class play cast amused full houses at the two performances of "The Beverly Hillbillies."

Andrea Ellis, chosen as Somerset's Maple Princess, served in the court of Queen Maple XXIII.

Large enthusiastic crowds were the rule at many hard-fought interscholastic games. Seven seniors honored Somerset by being named to the All-County Football Team. Randy Cober was chosen for the Tribune-Democrat All Star football team.

At Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises, seniors spoke their last words and sang their last songs as a complete group. Now, as they begin a new decade, listen to their own individual sounds of scholarship, sportsmanship and service — the sounds of '70.

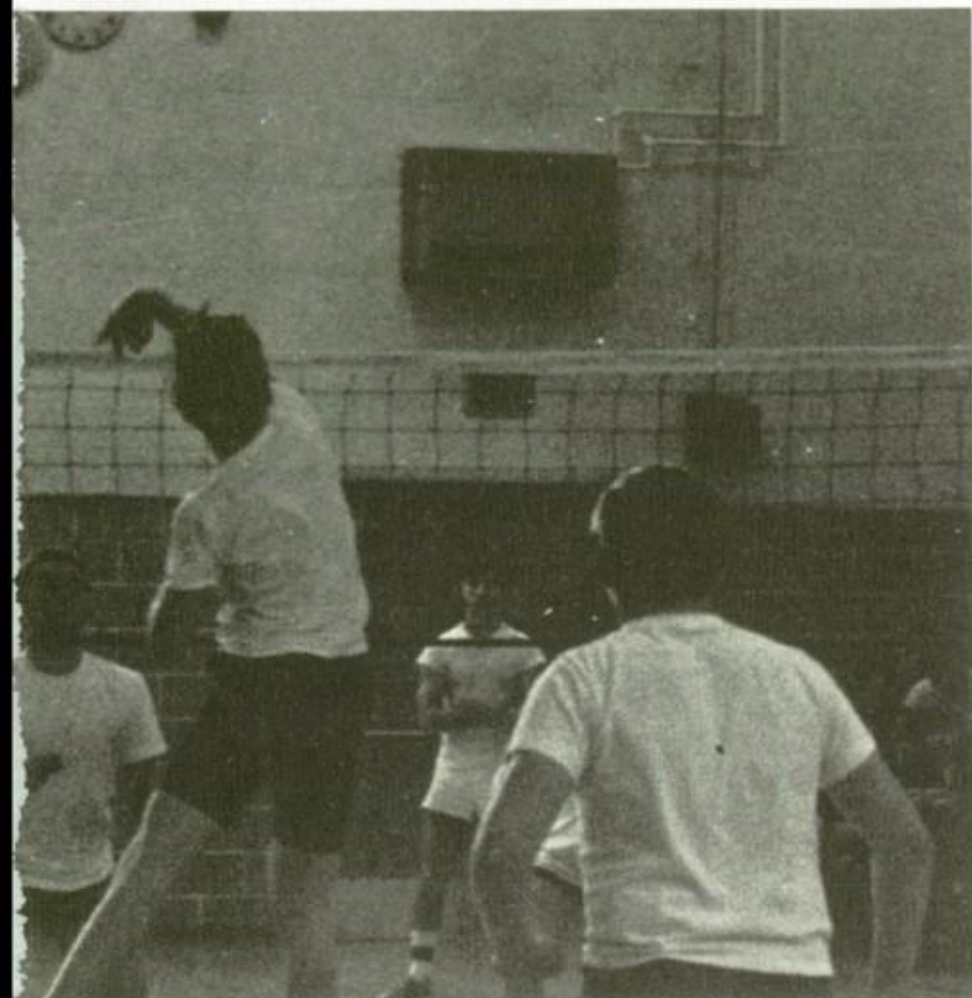

Cheers echo through the gym as the seniors crush the spirits of the underdogs with a decisive victory in the annual volleyball match.

Realized Achievements

Senior class sponsor and officers are Mr. Garvin Kissinger, President Mark Pile, Vice-president Dennis Baker, Secretary Debra Hoffer, and Treasurer Brad Winters.

Returning home with their prizes, top magazine salesmen Sandy Martin, Denise Miller, Andrea Ellis, Linda Glessner and Patricia Forsythe display the prizes and smiles of victors.

Five Seniors Receive

Selected as the outstanding senior vocational home economics student for 1969-70 was Barbara Eileen Maurer. She achieved this distinction because of her exceptional interest and skill in domestic arts. She was a member of FHA this past year. Barbara's future plans include a factory occupation.

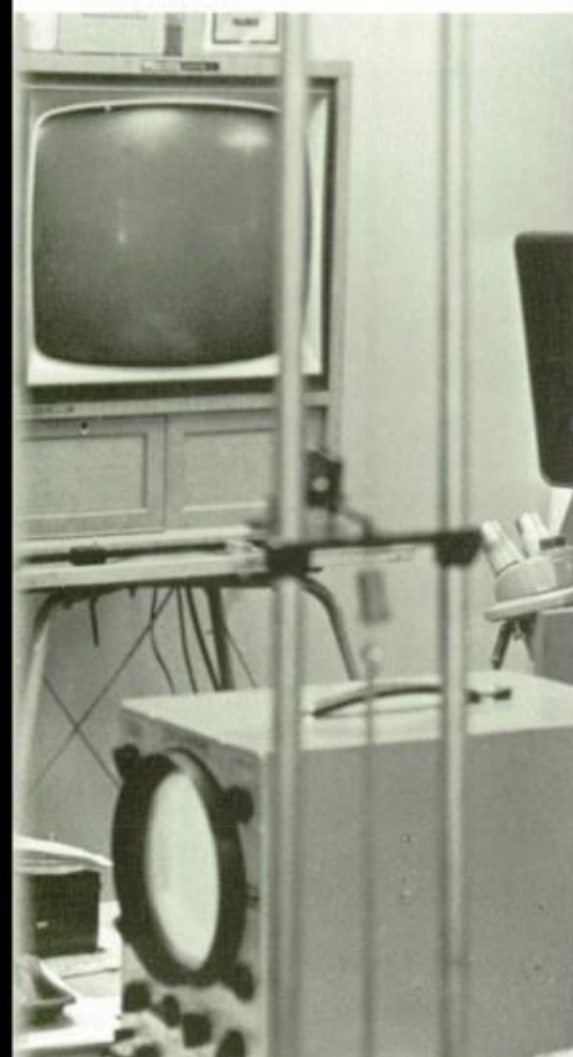

Kyle Susan Oline led her class in academic standing at the end of the first semester. She was a member of National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll and the Humanities Seminar. Junior high editor of the Eaglet, she was also BPW girl for October.

In the business department, Lynn Marie Shaffer was named the outstanding senior student. A member of FBLA, she received the Bookkeeping I Award and was selected as Miss FBLA. She was a member of National Honor Society and a representative to the Women's Club. Bookkeeping and secretarial work are included in her future plans.

Special Recognition For Their Outstanding Ability

Eugene Edward Barron was honored as the outstanding student in vocational agriculture. He belonged to FFA for four years. During his senior year he received the Keystone Farmer's Degree. A two-year letterman in wrestling, he was the 1969 Christmas Tournament Champion.

Chosen as outstanding industrial arts vocational senior was Terry Wickham. He was selected on the basis of responsibility, dependability and a conscientious attitude toward his work. Terry was largely responsible for the plastic injection machine project in the machine shop. Future plans include the service.

Classmates Name Hauger, Pile As Ideal Seniors

As a varsity basketball player, Mark Pile spends many hours in practice shooting.

On the basis of personality and leadership, Mary Ann Hauger was elected Miss Senior by her classmates. Participating in Mixed Chorus for four years, Mary highlighted her senior year in the Roof Garden Folk Seniors. She also served as treasurer for the Future Teachers of America. Named as Soroptimist Senior for December, she gave a short talk on her experiences in Future Teachers of America Club. Another outstanding achievement of her senior year was her election as the Student Council's first Homecoming Queen. Mary also served on the cheerleading squad for three years, competed in the Maple Princess contest, participated in the senior class play, and worked on the Eaglet.

Leading the class of '70 for the past five years was one good reason why Mark Thomas Pile was elected Mr. Senior by his fellow classmates. He also served as homeroom president during these past years. Mark played varsity football and basketball, earning numerals and letters in both sports. Co-captain of the football team, he was named to the All-County Football Team. Receiving the Soroptimist Citizenship Award was another outstanding achievement of his senior year. Other school activities included Key Club, in which he served as Vice-president; Chorus; S-Club; Senior Rotarian for the month of November; Humanities Seminar; and athletics editor of the Eaglet.

Senior Lions were Richard Forney, Roger Klink, Mike Long, Lynn Dietz, Marlin Hottle, Dan Riggs, Eugene Barron, Greg Zearfoss and Chester Walker.

Selected as Senior Kiwanians were (top) Jerry Shaulis, Richard Forney, Jim Mapes (second) Eugene Sanzi, Larry Ogline (bottom) Jeff Keim, Tom Mangne and Carl Fritz

Service Clubs Invite Boys To Attend Meetings

Representatives to the Jaycee meetings were Doug Platt, Randy Cober, John Blackburn, John Farkosh, Ted Myers (seated) Dave Troll, Larry Ogline and Pat Sherren.

Selected boys from the Somerset Area High School senior class were privileged to speak at local service clubs in the community. Senior Lions, Jaycees and Rotarians were elected by their classmates on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership and service. Senior Kiwanians were chosen by members of the Key Club on the same basis. Each month selected senior boys were invited to attend the meetings of the local club which they had been elected to visit. At the end of the visiting period the representatives gave short talks on subjects in which they were interested. Public speaking gave each service club representative an ideal opportunity to inform the community by speaking on school activities while representing the sounds of '70.

Senior Rotarians were Frank Kerch, Brad Winters, Jim Mapes, Dennis Baker, Carl Fritz, Larry Sarver (seated) Mark Clark, Kerry Metzger and Mark Pile.

Girls Entertain Community Women's Organizations

Senior girls exemplifying character, leadership and service to the school and community were selected as representatives to the Business and Professional Women's Club, the Soroptimist Club and the Women's Club. The Business and Professional Women's Club representatives were chosen by the faculty. The representatives of the other two clubs were selected by their classmates. Each month a girl received the honor of an invitation to an evening meeting and entertainment. During this single monthly meeting, the representatives gave a short talk on a school activity or a topic of general interest.

The club representatives participated in the new activities and projects of these local clubs, providing them with memorable, enjoyable, and meaningful experiences to add to the sounds of '70.

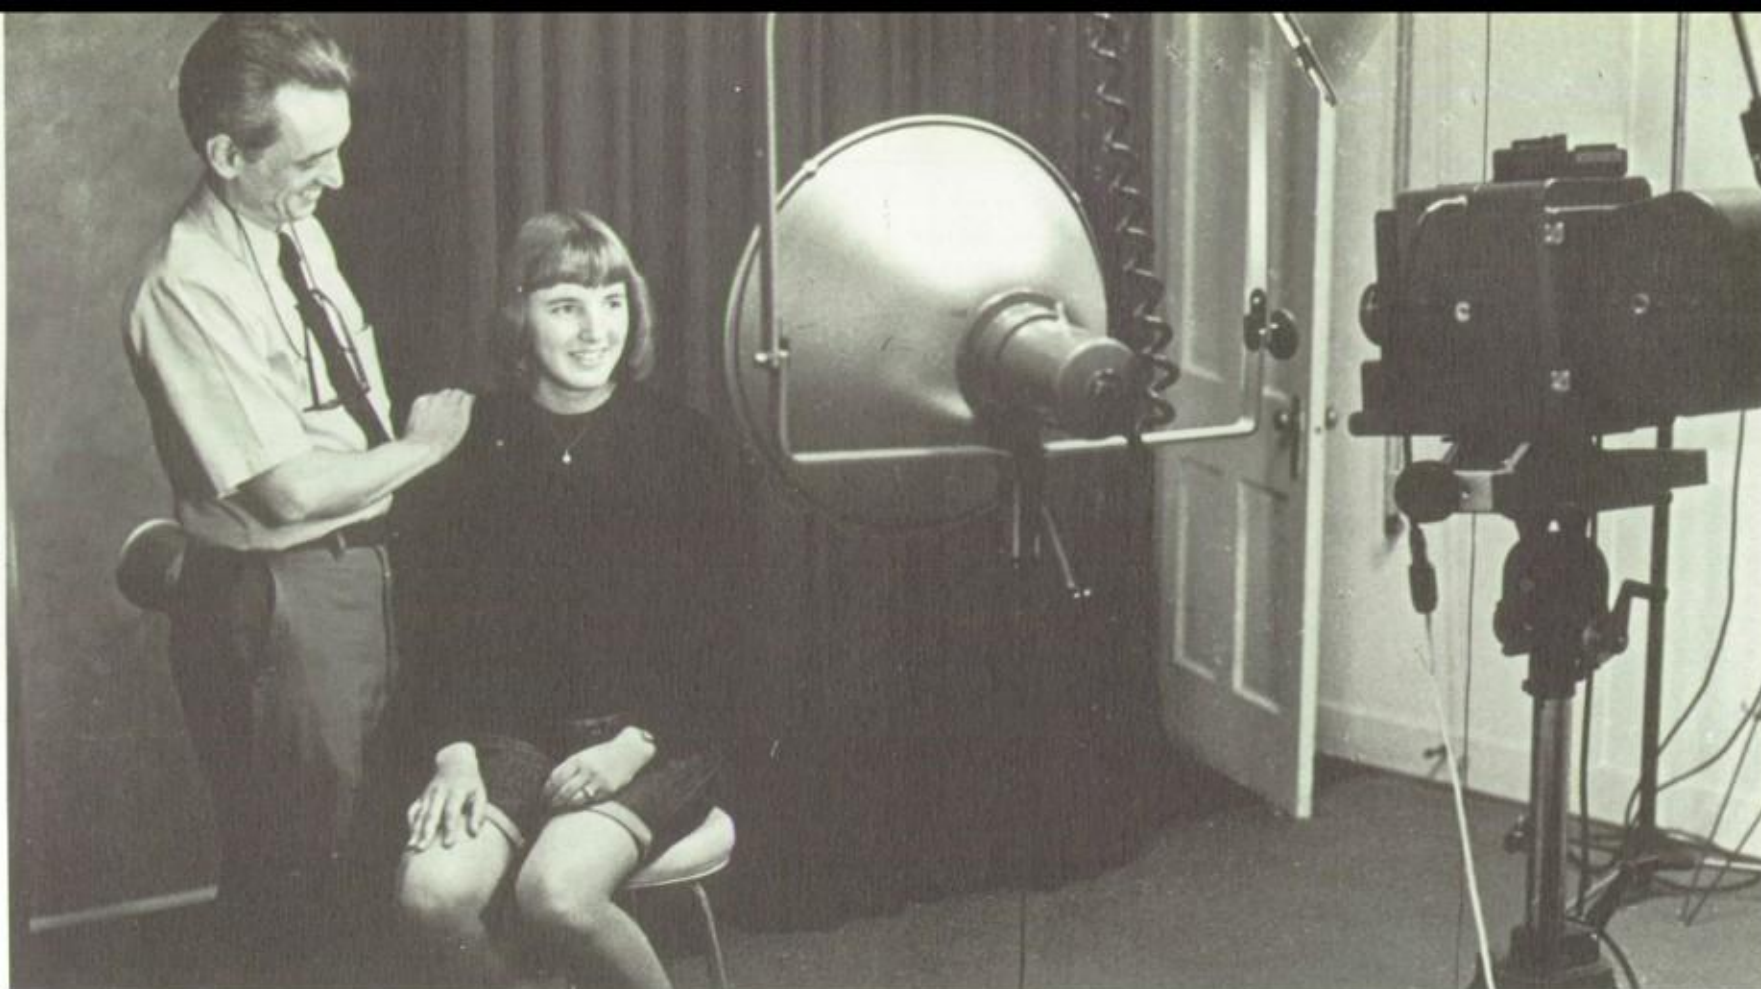

Soroptimist Seniors were Mary Sue Findley, Mary Ann Hauger, Susan J. Walker, Jane Stoy, Elizabeth Younkin, Denise Miller, Connie Aultz and Mary Alice Powell.

Women's Club Seniors were Gail Stutzman, Sally Maust, Amy Landis, Lynn Shaffer, Leslie Rovnyak, Carolyn Gambino, Deborah Hoffer and Andrea Ellis.

Senior representatives to BPW were Susan E. Walker, Kyle Ogline, Elena Palomba, Shirley Swank, Myrtle Barron, Janet Lowry, Joyce Ludy and Linda Knupp.

Council Organizes First Homecoming; Holds

Representative Kaylynn Saylor and alternates Jane Gindlesperger, David Rose and Donna Mostoller discuss possibilities for their Homecoming float.

Representatives from each homeroom comprised the Student Council, which discussed numerous school problems and suggestions of the student body with the administration. With current fashions and fads, one of the major problems discussed was the dress code.

Under the leadership of President Carl Fritz and Sponsor Mr. Ralph Egolf, assisted by Vice-President Jane Stoy, Secretary Larry Barron and Treasurer Dean Hottle, the Council organized Somerset's first Homecoming, held on October 24. It included a parade and the crowning of Mary Ann Hauger as Homecoming Queen. Other activities of the group included the traditional class volleyball game between sophomores, juniors and seniors, and Twirp Week. They also continued sponsorship of our adopted child, Juanito Gambito, for the fifth year.

Upperclassmen James Brant, Michael Carey, Rodney Pile and John Zborovancik take advantage of Stacey Hank's sophomore awe of them as they load her with books during Twirp Week.

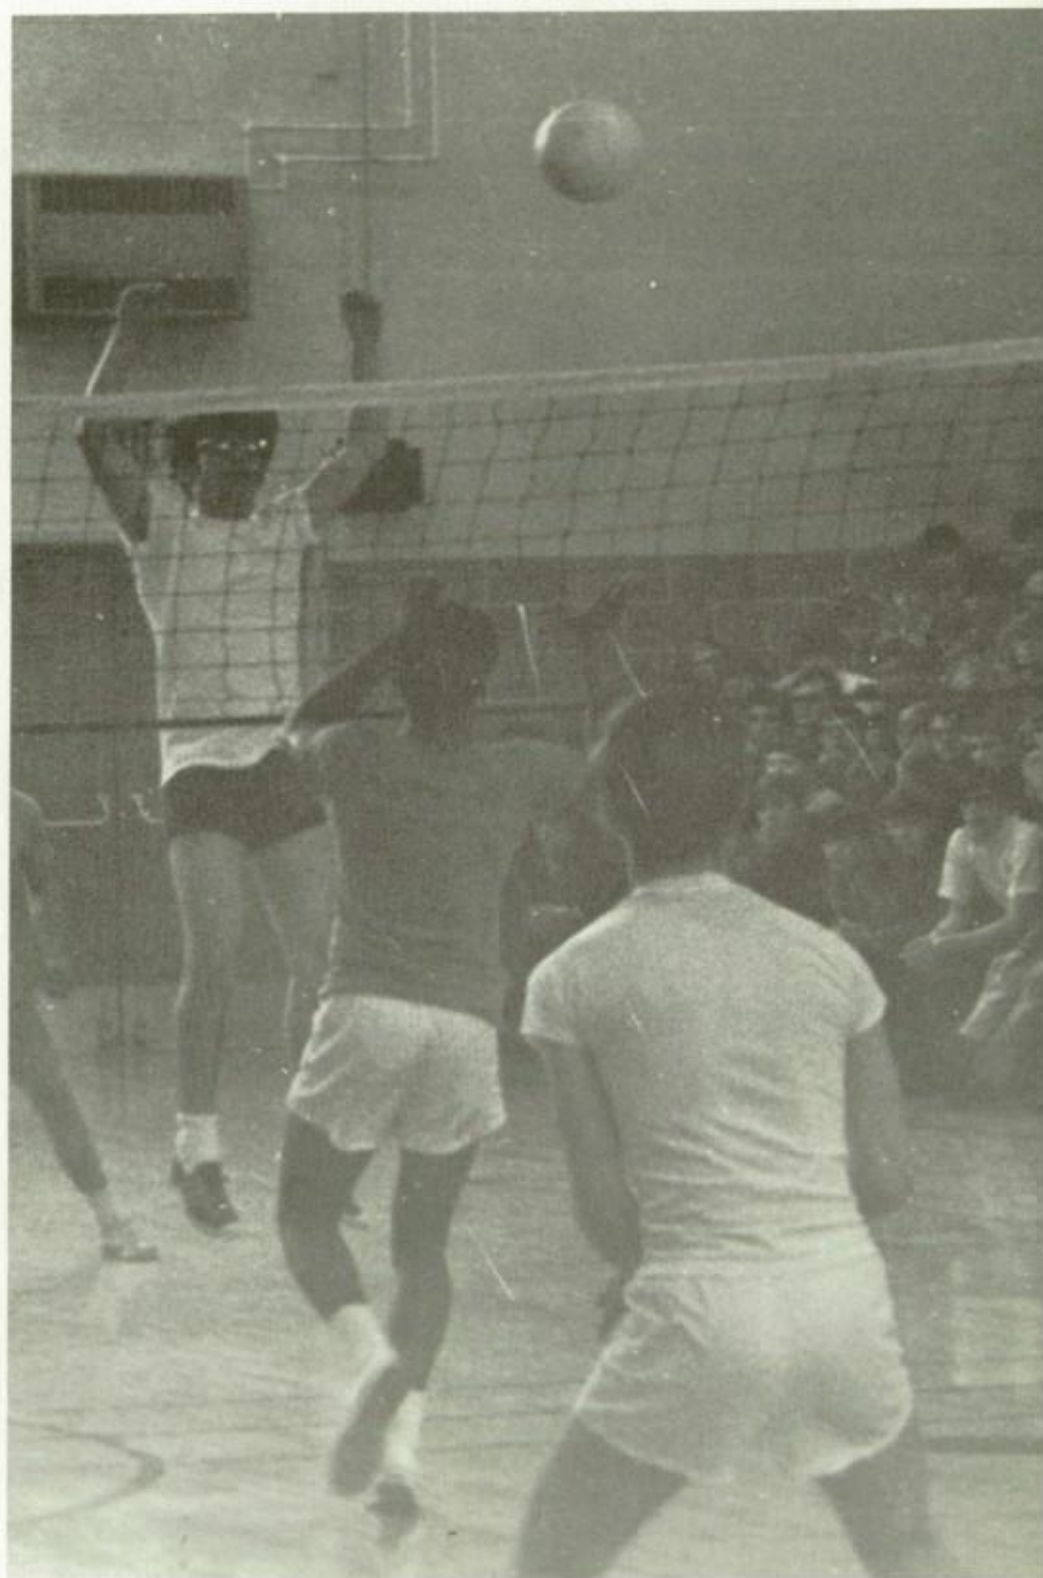

1969-70 council officers were Secretary Larry Barron, Vice-president Jane Stoy, Treasurer Dean Hottle and President Carl Fritz.

High Yearbook Ratings

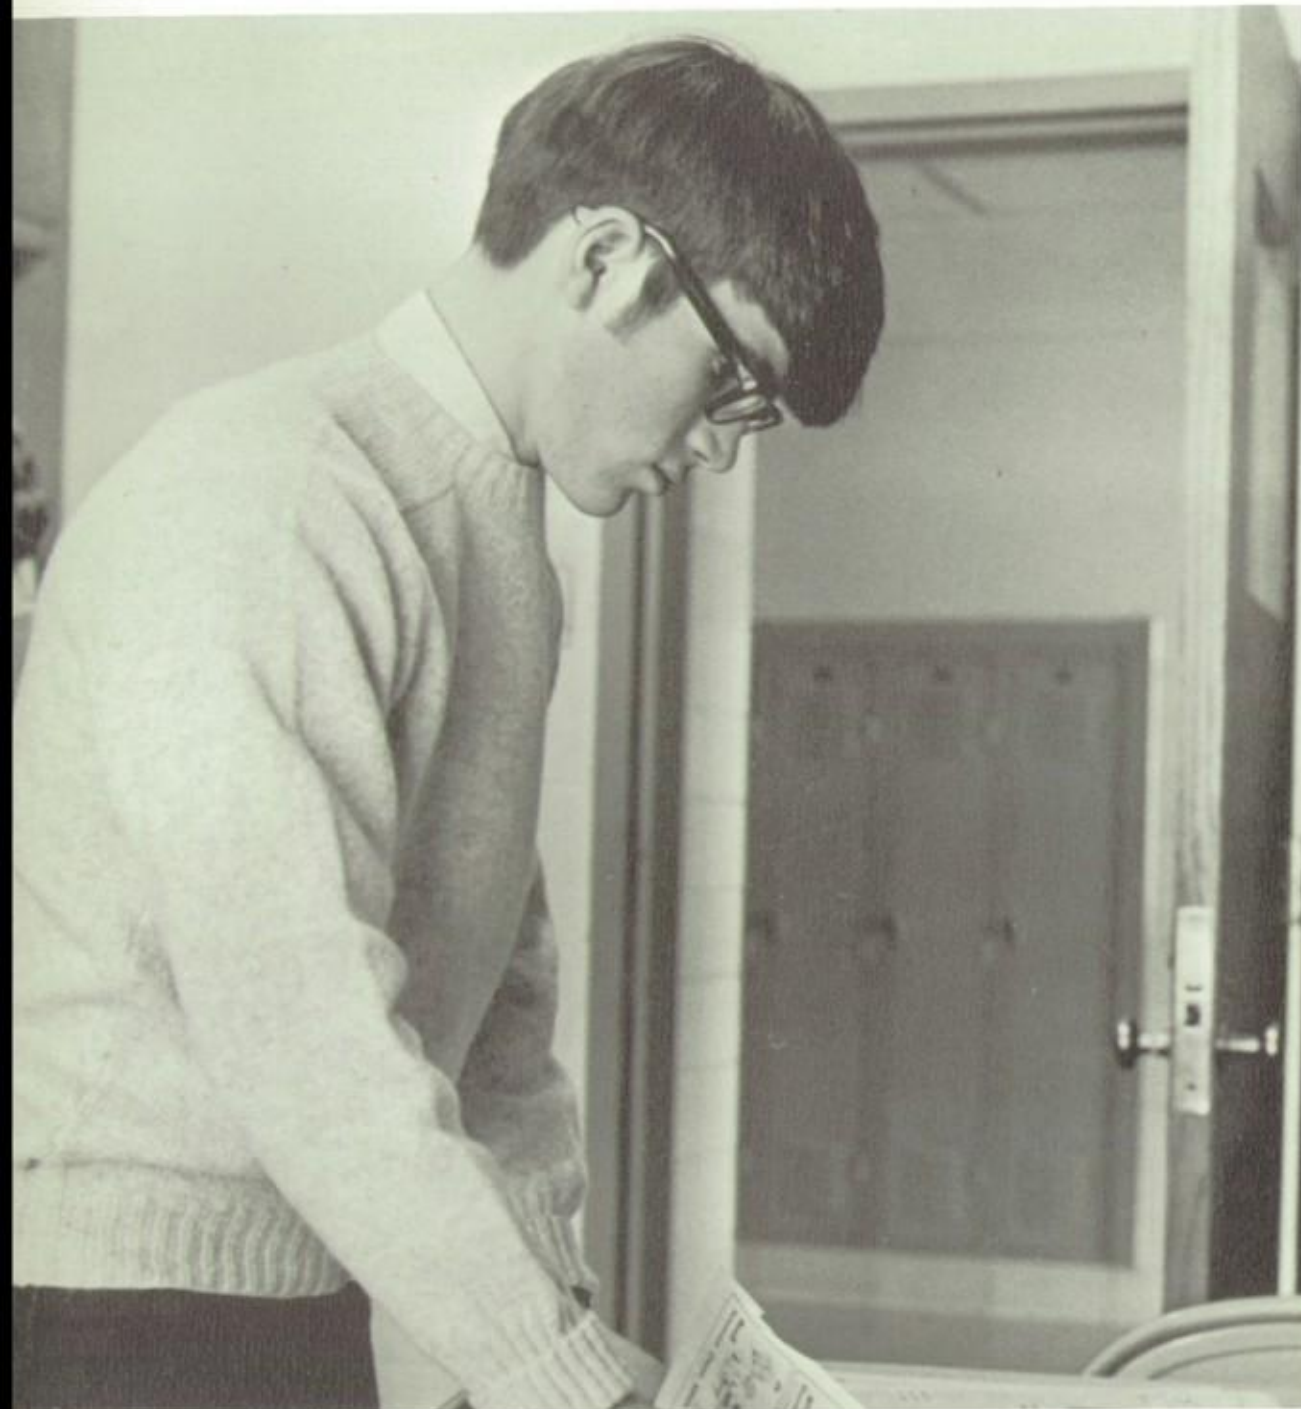

The 1970 Eaglet was headed by Andrea Ellis, editor-in-chief, and Sally Maust, copy editor. These girls attended the yearbook journalism workshop at Kent State University in August, 1969. Yearbook Journalism II students comprised the literary staff, with Mrs. Phyllis Cindric as adviser. The 1969 Eaglet received two honor awards, including a First Place Award from the Columbia Press Association and an A rating from the National School Yearbook Association.

Promoting publication finances was the obligation of the business staff, composed of senior sales students. They managed the magazine sales, the selling of patrons listings and the yearbook subscription drive. This staff was headed by Business Manager David Hillegas, Assistant Manager David Beal and directed by Mrs. Lilia Miller.

Staff Wins International Gallup Award In 1969

Published monthly by the Newspaper Journalism II classes, "The Eagle's Echo" kept students abreast of school news. Editor-in-Chief Carolyn Gambino headed the paper, with Mr. Jay Christner as adviser. Representatives of the '69-'70 staff went to the junior high to instruct the English classes in feature writing. They also sponsored the Junior High Press Club. For the first time junior high members were able to submit stories for publication.

Newspaper editorials concerned proper school dress, pros and cons of pep rallies, and facial hair. The February Safety Issue stressed the completion of the sidewalk to the Senior High on Franklin Street to alleviate a traffic hazard.

Hi-Y Directs Swimming And Basketball Programs

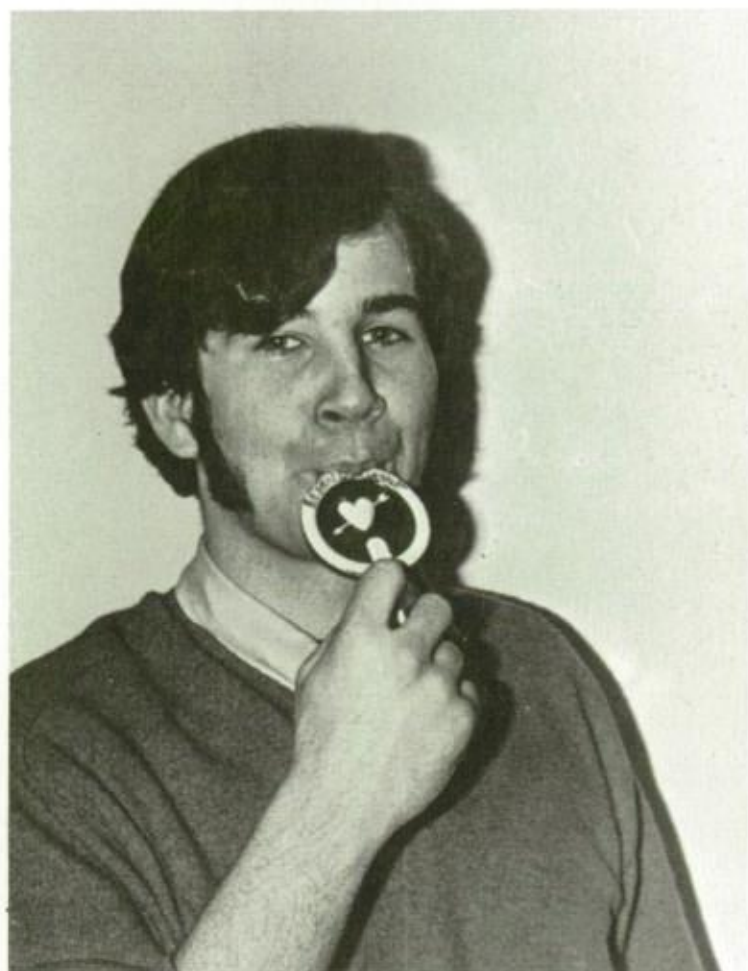

All styles of shoes can be found deposited outside the gym at a sock hop sponsored by the Hi-Y club.

The goal for the 1969-70 Hi-Y Club was to aid in local YMCA functions in affiliation with the Pennsylvania YMCA. This year's members supervised Saturday morning basketball games at the Armory and swimming programs and game periods at the State Hospital each week. Several members including Charles Meyers and Terry Koontz, attended the Model Legislative Assembly at Lebanon High School in March. After receiving a geographical assignment and other instructions in Pittsburgh, several Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y members traveled to Harrisburg for a mock United Nations session in April. Monthly meetings were conducted by President Larry Barron, Vice-President Mark Martz, Secretary Tony Pacifico, Treasurer Ben Vinzani and Sergeant-at-Arms Rodney Hardesty. The club was sponsored by Mr. William Kuhlman.

Tri-Hi-Y Campaigns Furnish Funds For Needy

In affiliation with the YMCA, Tri-Hi-Y Club gave girls the opportunity to serve their school and community. Sponsor Miss Ruth Barkley and President Elena Polomba, Vice-President Sandra Martin, Secretary Connie Aultz, Treasurer Pamela Rayman and Chaplain Vickie Younkin planned meetings and projects for the year.

Their activities included the annual Care Drive and the Heart Fund Campaign. The group also sold Zip Code directories and stuffed animals as fund raising projects. Members collaborated with the Hi-Y Club on a float for Somerset's first Homecoming parade. The two organizations collected money for Cerebral palsy and did work at the State Hospital. Teen-Talk books provided topics for guest speakers and discussion in second semester meetings.

1969-70 officers were Elena Polomba, Sandra Martin, Pamela Rayman, Vickie Younkin and Connie Aultz (absent).

Key Club Raises Flag, Directs School Traffic

Led by President James Mapes, Vice President Mark Pile, Secretary David Troll and Treasurer Dennis Baker, the Key Club was one of the most active clubs in school this year. Members raised the American flag daily in the front lawn and directed traffic in the parking lot after school. During Safety Week this year's club members washed car windshields in an uptown parking lot. Key Clubbers cooperated with the Student Council by making a float for Homecoming and sponsored a Parents' Appreciation Banquet during Key Club Week. This year's club, like its predecessors, sponsored buses to several away football games and assisted Mr. Edward Joseph at the concession stand at all home games. At the club's weekly meetings there has been much participation by underclassmen under senior leadership. Mr. Richard Gould was this year's sponsor.

Mr. Richard Gould was a first-time sponsor for Key Club this year.

Weekly Story Hour Conducted By Library Club

As a community service project, the Library Club visited the Somerset State Hospital every Wednesday after school for story hour. Each time, groups read stories and entertained the patients.

Under the direction of Mrs. Martha Halverson, the club met every Monday. Keeping the library bulletin boards and the display cases up to date was a major responsibility of the club. By working in the library two periods each week, members gained experience in library work. The club added to the Christmas atmosphere of the school by sponsoring the fifth annual Christmas door-decorating contest. Members of the club participated in the Cambria-Somerset Teenage Library Conference in Cambria County.

Mrs. Halverson shows Joyce Miller the periodical film which will take the place of stacks of magazines.

Teri Dunmeyer and Lisa Martin perform a daily Library Club duty by returning library cards to the homeroom mailboxes.

Future Photographers Practice In Camera Club

Under the new leadership of Mr. Richard Gould, the Camera Club strove to obtain better pictures for both the Eaglet and "The Eagle's Echo." Members met every Wednesday after school. Here younger and less experienced members worked under the direction of President David Troll.

Eugene Sanzi and David Troll comprised "The Eagle's Echo" photography staff, while Chester Walker was the Eaglet photographer. The purpose of the club was to train younger club members to take over these staff positions. Photographers traveled to all games and extra-curricular activities to record pictures for our school publications.

Ski Club Vies In Hidden Valley Invitational Races

Because the students of Somerset Area Schools have access to many ski slopes, the Ski Club was organized to promote interest in skiing. Recognizing that skiing is becoming a favorite sport, the club sponsored lessons for beginners at Hidden Valley, the home slope. The club planned an invitational meet, where our team competed with other area teams in skiing events.

Under the guidance of Mr. Thomas Fridy, forty students met every other Thursday after school. The officers of the 1969-70 season were Mary Dosch, president; Jeffrey Cook, vice-president; Betsy Weimer, secretary; and Melissa Moyer, treasurer. The club also visited other area resorts, including the Seven Springs Resort.

Radio Club Sponsors Johnstown Quiz Run-Offs

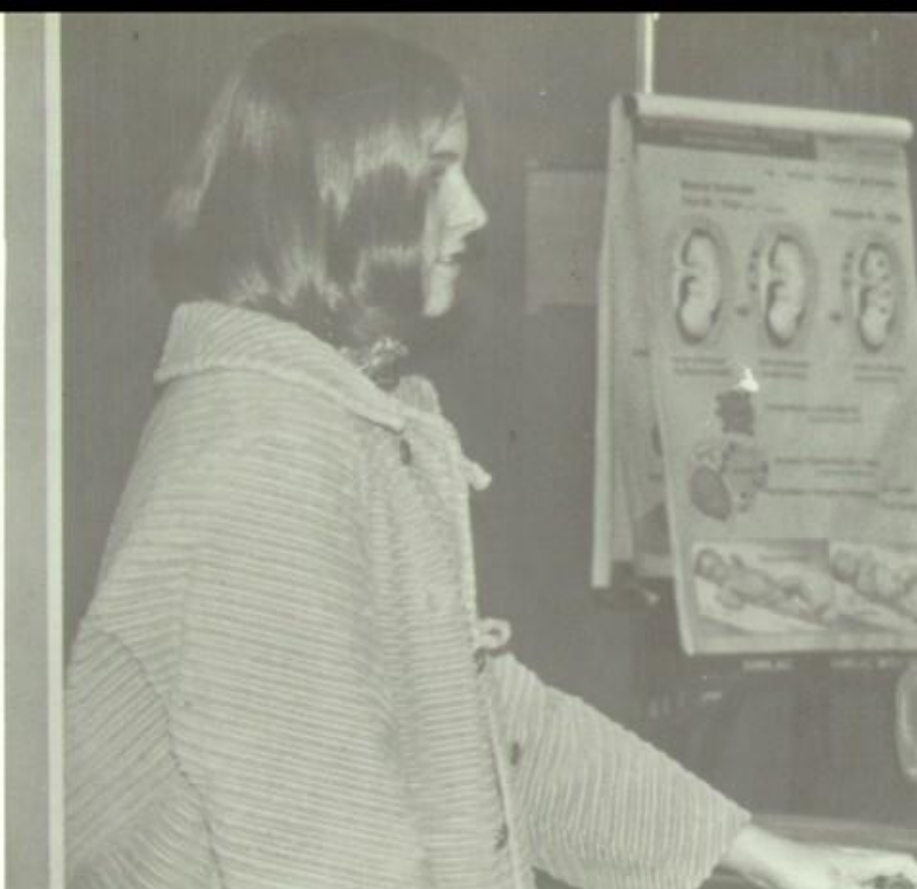

Greg Zearfoss makes a tape of play excerpts for broadcasting publicity for the class play.

Student members in the Somerset High School Radio Club gained real experience in the field of broadcasting. Members presented a regular schedule of programs on Radio Station WVSC. Programs were aired on the third Monday of each month. These consisted mainly of sports reporting, school happenings, and the top ten record countdown. Often commentators discussed poll questions or interviewed members of the student body on their activities. Lynn Carver presented a Veterans Day Program over the school public address system to students. The annual Christmas program was a highlight of the season. During November members of the club sponsored the run-offs for the selection of Somerset's representatives on the Johnstown TV Scholastic Quiz. Mr. Jay Christner sponsored the club.

Candy Stripers Lend Helping Hands In Hospital

Suzanne Oppegard performs one of the basic duties by making a bed.

Many girls from the junior and senior high schools interested in medical careers spent spare time serving in the Somerset Community Hospital as Candy Stripers. Supervised by Mrs. Fred Rayman, director of in-service education, the Candy Stripers learned proper methods of feeding and caring for patients, while gaining experience working in a hospital atmosphere. An orientation program conducted on Saturday mornings taught new volunteers basic duties. After serving fifty hours, girls were given their own caps. At the end of one hundred hours they received a pin. A bar for the 100-hour pin was awarded for each additional hundred hours of service. An annual tea, held in April in honor of the Candy Stripers, gave special recognition to deserving volunteers.

Club Members Sort Clothes For Needy Families

Promoting interest in the field of health was the purpose of the 1969-1970 Health Careers Club. Members worked on crafts at the Somerset State Hospital and prepared a Thanksgiving basket for a needy family in the community as service projects. Their principal civic project was surprising the patients at the Siemon Nursing Home with a Christmas party. Showing their interest in the control and possible cure of muscular dystrophy, club members canvassed the Somerset area, collecting over sixty dollars for the fund drive. Top money makers here were Debra Murray, Gail Stutzman and Suzanne Opegard. In the spring the club took field trips to the Rehabilitation Center in Johnstown and to a school of nursing.

Officers were Mary Alice Powell, Randee Ankeny, Gail Stutzman and Amy Lutz.

Cadet Teaching Gives Actual Classroom Practice

Future Teachers of America, sponsored by Miss E. Marie Brant and Mrs. Pauline Glessner, enjoyed an active year beginning with their induction on October 16. One week later members visited Clarion State College and toured the campus with Mr. Walter Hart, director of admissions as their guide. Other activities included their annual teachers' tea, cadet teaching in the spring and sponsoring after-game dances. Featured this year for the first time were films such as "A Desk for Billie" which encouraged members to consider elementary teaching. Highlight of the year was the Mr. Legs Contest sponsored by the club. Somerset sent Joyce Ludy to the Central Western Region as vice-president and Elena Palomba to County FTA as secretary.

1969-70 Officers were Treasurer Mary Ann Hayger, Vice-president Jeanne Barbera, President Joyce Ludy and Secretary Debbie Weible.

FBLA Collects Coupons For A Kidney Machine

President Ronald Menser led the Somerset Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America in its duties and functions of the 1969-70 year. FBLA was comprised of students who plan to go into the fields of business after graduation. Preparing and sending Christmas cheer packages to Somerset graduates in Vietnam was their first-semester project. Selling Easter candy to finance expenses of the year was the FBLA's second-semester project. The club also helped the Rockwood FBLA purchase a kidney machine for Paula Pyle by collecting Betty Crocker coupons. Members continued the Gasperine and Weigle Park and Pool Fund as another project. The club's sponsor was Mrs. Lilia Miller.

Eugene Barron sells tickets for the Bedford skating party to other FFA members.

By participating in local, county, state, and national events, the 1969-70 Future Farmers of America developed agricultural cooperation and recognition of a prosperous agricultural industry while rendering community services. Officers attended a county leadership meeting at Somerset in October. As a money-making project, they sponsored their annual Christmas tree sale. Members traveled to the Pennsylvania Farm Show at Harrisburg in January, where Eugene Barron and Roger Hay received Keystone Farmer Degrees. They also sponsored a roller skating party in April at Bedford. The FFA basketball team competed with other chapters. Members and parents attended a Recognition Night banquet in March. Mr. Quentin Hine sponsored the club.

Officers Attend Windber Leadership Workshop

Leading the Somerset Chapter of Future Homemakers of America were President Irma Heiple and Sponsor Mrs. Patricia McNaul. On October 8th the club officers traveled to Windber High School for a leadership workshop to learn the proper techniques in parliamentary procedure. As fund raising projects the club participated in the Christmas fair at the Armory on November 28 and 29, where they sold homemade candy. They also sponsored a sock hop after the first basketball game on December 5. Somerset's FHA had the responsibility of designing and preparing program covers for the county banquet, which was held in Jennerstown in April. FHA members also attended the State Convention in Harrisburg.

Club Hears Spanish Entertainers In Pittsburgh

Under the direction of Mrs. Antoinette Cesarone, thirty-five students learned about the Spanish language and culture in the 1969-70 Spanish Club. Presiding over the monthly meetings was Suzanne Oppegard, president. Assisting her were Vice-President Michael Cascio, Secretary Robert Moyer and Treasurer Rebecca Brallier.

Among club activities were a picnic and a Christmas fiesta. They also sponsored coat checking at basketball games and wrestling matches. In October the members traveled to Pittsburgh to see a show composed entirely of Spanish performers, including Jose Greco and Herb Alpert and the Tiajuana Brass. Eight members departed on June 1 for a fifteen day tour in Spain to climax the club's year.

Officers were Rosemary Raszewski, Jeffrey Burkett, Ann Brubaker and Jeffrey Ankeny.

Guest Speakers Talk About German Customs

Introducing students to German Culture was the purpose of the 1969-70 Deutscher Verein. Under the direction of Mr. John Harris, advanced German students learned folk dances and attempted to carry on meetings in German. These meetings were conducted monthly by President Jeffrey Ankeny, Vice-president Jeffrey Burkett, Secretary Ann Brubaker and Treasurer Rosemary Raszewski. Members heard lectures by native Germans of the community including Mrs. Margot Beech, Mrs. Eve Cook and Susannah Müller vom Hagen, who was spending her senior year in Somerset High. The highlight of the year was the completion of the German scrabble board started by last year's club. This enabled the members to have fun while furthering their knowledge of the German language.

French Club Views Play At Mountain Playhouse

The 1969-70 French Club was comprised of French IV students under the direction of Mrs. Colette Sherren. The active year began with a picnic in August. Students enjoyed many activities, including Christmas caroling at the State Hospital, attending the Mountain Playhouse and sponsoring a football dance. President Dennis Baker, Vice-president Janet Lowry, Secretary Andrea Ellis and Treasurer Mark Clark showed slides to the members and discussed French culture in monthly business meetings. The club members joined together to purchase a painting for Mrs. Sherren. Miss Rosemary Coyle, student teacher from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, aided in teaching the classes.

Experience In Chorus

This year's chorus was the largest on record, with 160 members. It presented two public concerts. In the Christmas program, the chorus featured such numbers as "The Prayer of Our Lord" from King of Kings, "Glory to God" by Handel and the traditional presentation of "The Night Before Christmas."

They presented their annual Spring Festival in May with selections including "Turn Around, Look at Me" and "Hava Nagila." Also in May, the chorus hosted the South County Chorus Festival. Special groups comprised of juniors and sophomores presented programs at Commencement and Baccalaureate exercises. Selected members of the chorus attended county, district and regional chorus festivals. The group was accompanied by Susan E. Walker and Rebecca Brallier and directed by Mr. John Dice.

Octets Combine To Produce Lively Folk Music

Soprano Jane Gindlesperger's heart is in her mouth as she tries out for girls' octet.

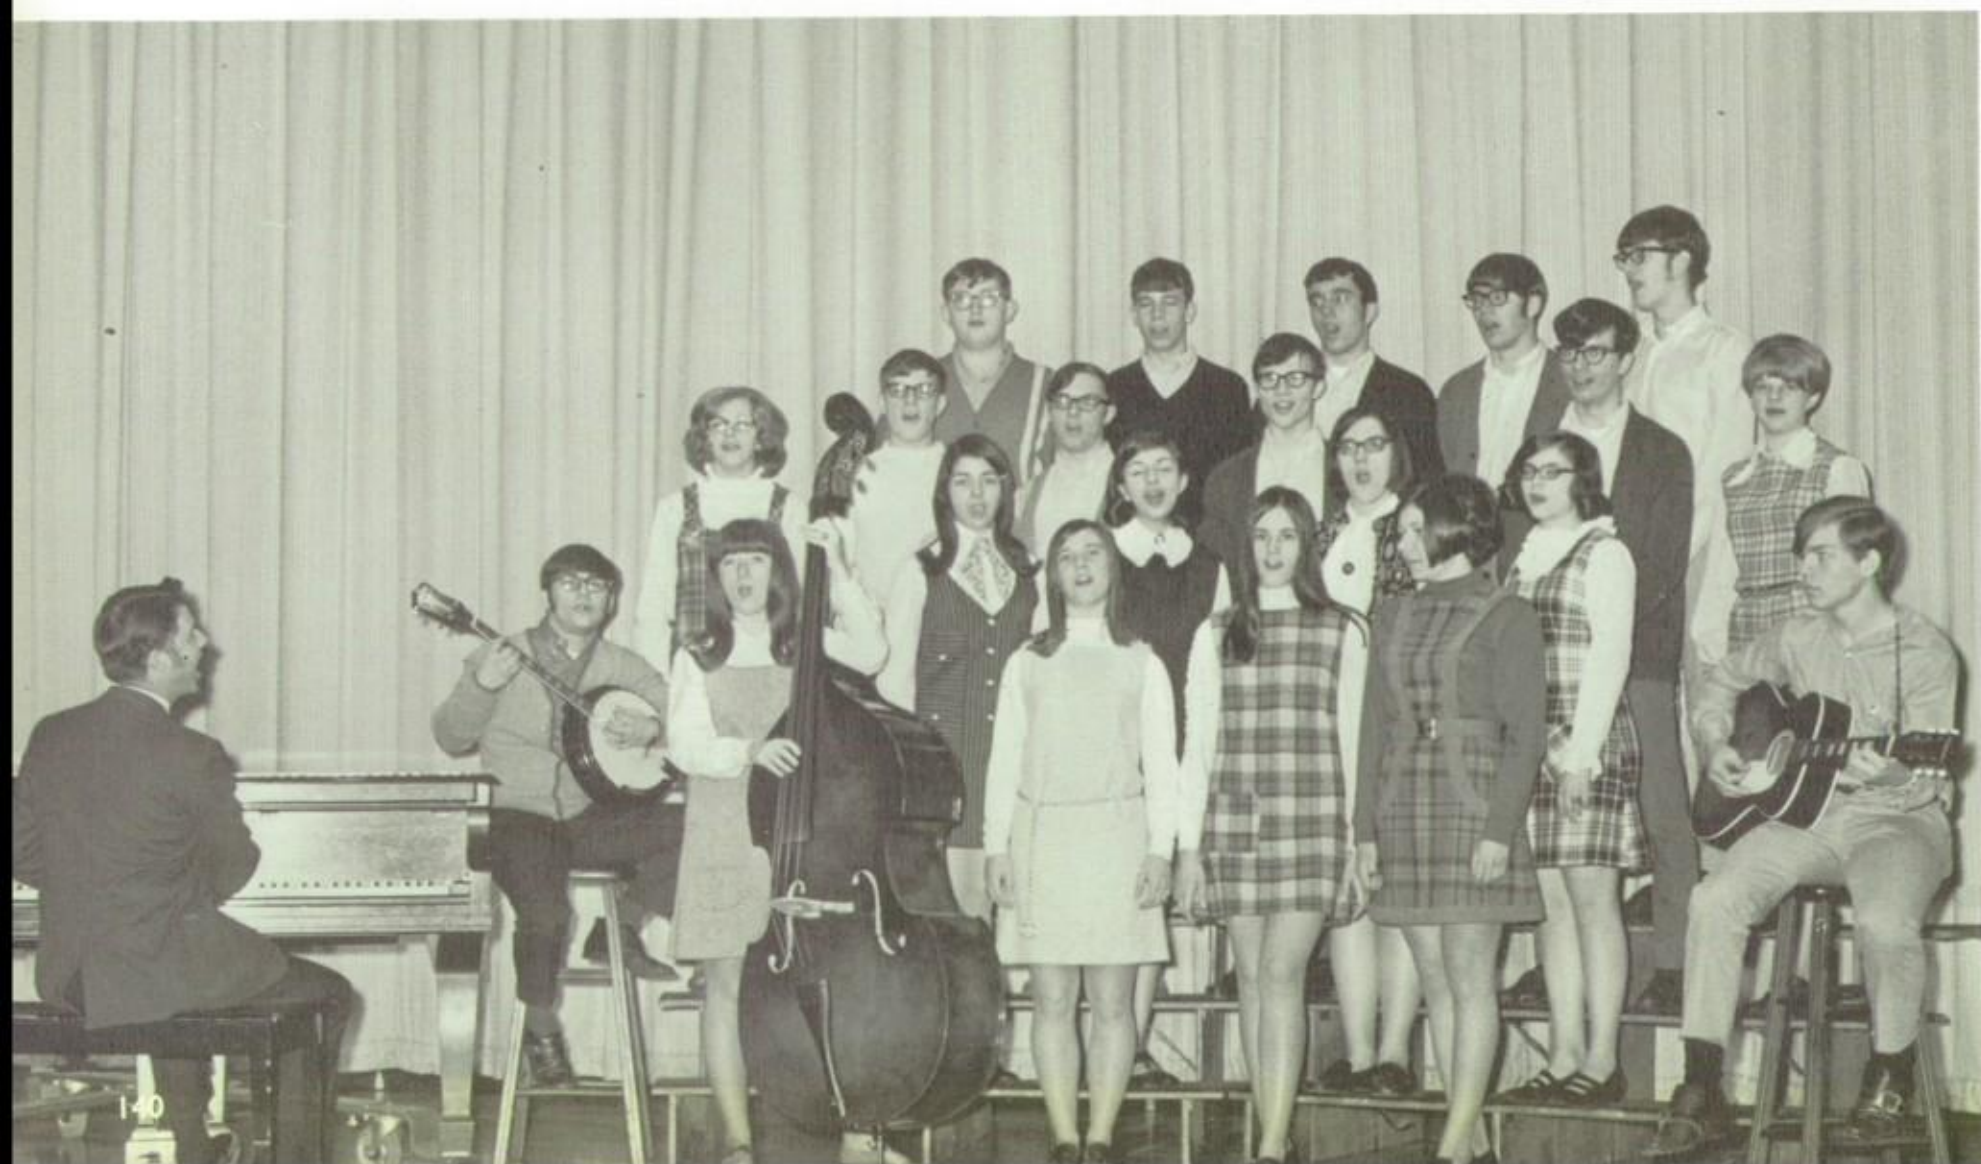

Under the direction of Mr. John Dice, the boys' and girls' octets made appearances at the Christmas concert, the Spring Festival, and the Maple Princess Contest. The merger of these octets and their alternates produced the Roof Garden Folk Singers. Also included in this group were accompanists Philip Peretti on banjo, Randy McDonald on guitar and Deborah Hoffer on string bass. Mr. Dice directed the group, while accompanying them on the piano.

The group made appearances at numerous functions throughout the Somerset Area, including the Lions Club Variety Show and the March of Dimes Spectacular.

Orchestra Performs In Several County Schools

For the first time this year the Somerset Area High School Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Chester Singer, undertook a county concert tour by special request. The orchestra participated in the South County Band Festival in the spring and also presented their program to the Maple Ridge Elementary School to encourage participation in the music program by younger students. Somerset hosted the Central-Western District Orchestra February 19-21. Twelve Members were selected to represent Somerset High School. They were Ann Brubaker, Susan E. Walker, Melissa Moyer, Carol Casteel, Susan Fritz, Donna Braeseker, Sherry Saylor, Michael Cascio, Sally Miller, Gaye Holsinger, Mary Dosch and Deborah Hoffer. The orchestra ended the year with its annual appearance at Commencement and Baccalaureate exercises.

Basketball Band Stimulates New Spirit At Games

At a pep assembly the pep band plays the victory march while the players for the coming game are introduced.

This year's band under the direction of Chester Singer was most active. The season started with their half-time performances at football games. Student teacher Mr. Thomas Shovestall assisted in creating and directing the intricate drill exercises which they presented each week. In December the band played for the opening of the new Route 219.

Somerset sent six representatives to District Band at Johnstown Central High. These included Russel Miller, Terry Miller, Joyce Miller, Rosemary Raszewski, Sharon Trimpey and Elizabeth Weimer. The band hosted the County Band Festival on April 14. They also played for the Halloween parade, the Winter Carnival, the Veterans Day Ceremony and Memorial Day. An innovation this year was the basketball band. This organization played at the basketball games to add spirit to the team and noise to the gym.

Headed by Joyce Ludy, the majorettes led the senior high band as they provided entertainment at football half-time performances and summer parade appearances. Creativity plus long hours of practice enabled the girls to perform original routines with fire and batons. In the summer they attended a practice camp organized by Joyce Ludy to strengthen their weak points. This year the girls acquired new uniforms made especially for use in fire twirling. The squad participated in the Majorette Contest in Johnstown on April 3. Twirlers included seniors Joyce Ludy, Patricia Hardwig, Sherry Saylor, Rebecca Gnagy, Jane Stoy, juniors Rose Raszewski, Barbara Stutzman, Kaylynn Saylor, and sophomore Patricia Ludy.

Varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Coleman supported the football, basketball and wrestling squads in the past year. They also organized and conducted frequent seasonal pep rallies. This not only lifted the spirits of the students, but proved to the Eagles and their coaches that the student body was supporting them in all their team efforts.

Captain Connie Aultz led the other seven varsity cheerleaders, including seniors Suzy Younkin and Sandy Benedict, and juniors Denise Lichty, Linda Mapes, Amy McClintock, Linda Schrock, and Joni Stumpf. Cheering on the junior varsity squad were Captain Susan Shaulis, Cindy Custer and Dawn Lease.

Mu Alpha Theta Investigates Advances Of Math

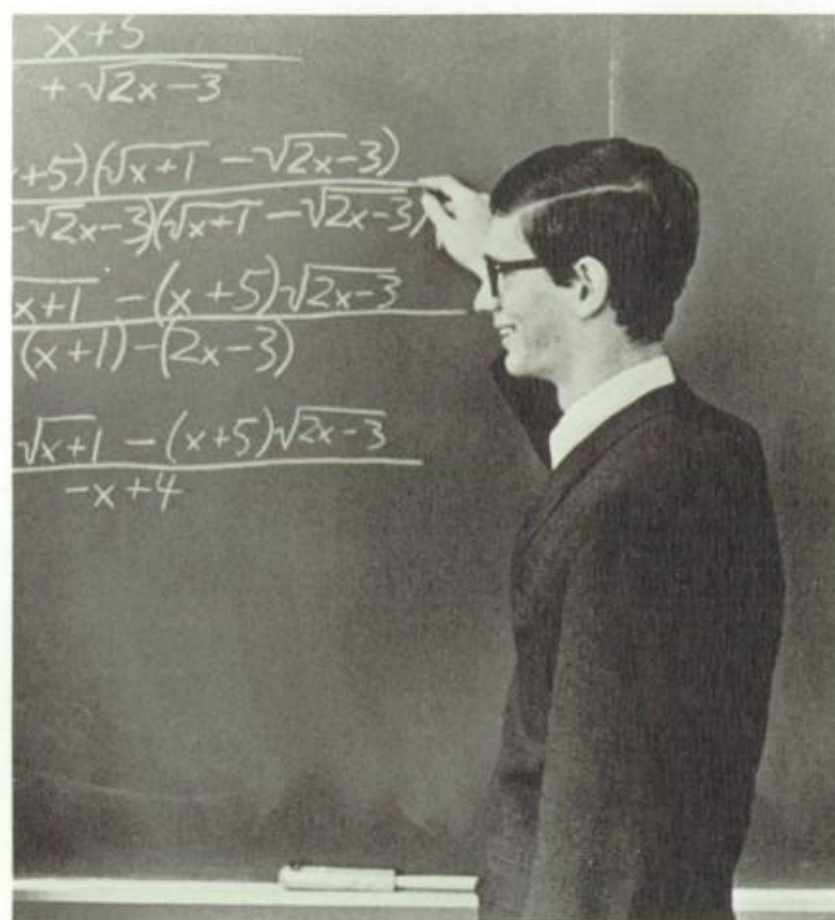

Meeting every other Friday, Mu Alpha Theta was comprised of sixteen advanced math students. Under the direction of Mr. William Kuhlman, members attended a mathematics seminar at Pittsburgh in October. Attending delegates reported their seminar experiences to fellow members.

During first semester meetings, students reported on magical squares, number systems and other appealing subjects. In second semester meetings members taught each other analytic geometry. President William Brubaker was assisted by Vice-President Kerry Metzgar and Secretary Larry Oline at these meetings. This nation-wide club was open to any student with a sufficient background in the field of mathematics. Members received certificates of club membership in the Awards Day Assembly.

Bill Brubaker uses the computer to help him with his Science Club project.

In September members of the Science department organized the 1969-70 Science Club. The club met on Mondays after school under the direction of Mr. Richard Gould, Mr. Robert Rhodes and Mr. Ottis Baer. Their goal was to promote scientific interest among senior high students and to provide equipment and space to perform scientific investigation and experimentation. Highlights of the year included a lecture on veterinary medicine by Dr. W. Robert Bastian and a visit to the Somerset Community Hospital, where laboratory tests, including blood counts and blood typing, were demonstrated to the students.

Science Seminar is a county-wide honor group including eight Somerset students chosen for their outstanding abilities in the field of science. These included seniors Joanna Glessner and William Brubaker and juniors Richard Baker, George Berkey, Ann Brubaker, Mary Dosch, Teri Dunmyer and George Kaufman.

The group met bi-weekly on Saturday mornings at the Somerset Senior High School, where they heard speakers and did experiments. The season consisted of ten sessions and three field trips, including visits to the Atomic Electrical Plant at Saxton, Falling Waters and Bear Run Nature Reserve and the American Telephone and Telegraph towers, where members studied microwave transmission. Mr. Thomas Fridy sponsored the seminar.

County Students Form First Humanities Seminar

County Co-ordinator Mr. Vernon Lease and Mr. Jay Christner, Somerset Area journalism teacher, directed the Somerset County Humanities Seminar. A new enrichment activity for Somerset County Schools, it was held at Somerset on ten Saturdays, beginning October 11. Forty juniors and seniors not specializing in a scientific course were selected from eleven school districts to participate. Guest lecturers covered a variety of subjects. Mr. Lawrence V. Pion from St. Francis College spoke on anthropology. Professors from the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown presented many of the lectures, including Dr. David Challis on music, Dr. Anita Martin on art, Dr. James Sheep on travel and Dr. Robert Hunter on Confucianism.

Athletic Performance Rewarded By S Club

S Club is an honorary group of boys who have performed with distinction in a sport and have earned a varsity letter in that sport. To qualify for a letter, an athlete must have competed in over one half of the quarters in football or forty per cent of the quarters in basketball. Wrestling, cross country and track letters were earned by the number of points accumulated or by places earned in the District V finals. Gymnastics and golf letters were earned by participating in a given number of matches. Mr. Carl Wauguman served as sponsor of the group.

Quill and Scroll is an international honorary society designed to reward individual achievement in the field of journalism. Students of "The Eagle's Echo" publication staff who published fifty inches of copy in the "Somerset Daily American" and were in the upper third of their class qualified for this organization. Members of the Eaglet literary staff who were recommended by their editors and the adviser and qualified scholastically were eligible for membership. Newspaper students were inducted in their junior year, while yearbook students were admitted as seniors. In April an induction and reception for new members took place. Journalism advisers Mr. Jay Christner and Mrs. Phyllis Cindric sponsored this honor group.

NHS Tutors Students In Troublesome Subjects

Goals of the National Honor Society were to render scholastic services and develop individual character. Members were selected by the senior high faculty on the basis of their ability to attain these goals. Eligibility for selection was maintenance of at least a 3.0 average. To new students, members offered guidance and introductions to prospective teachers. For the first time they also provided tutoring services for students in need of help in their schoolwork. 1969-70 officers were President John Farkosh, Vice-President Kerry Metzgar, Secretary Kyle Oglie and Treasurer Janet Lowry. Mrs. Pauline Glessner and Mr. Richard Flick acted as advisers.

Officers were Kerry Metzger, Kyle Oglie, Janet Lowry and John Farkosh.

Home A Losing Record, Build Depth For Future

Somerset football in 1969 posted a disappointing record of two wins five losses and two ties. Head Coach C. Wilson Weaver and his assistants Richard Colliver, David Maize and James McCall had the task of building a squad around ten returning lettermen, most of whom had earned their letters on specialty teams.

Somerset opened the season with a 14-6 triumph over Cambria Heights. The Eagles scored the winning touchdown in the final quarter.

The Eagles lost the next four in a row. Somerset then bounced back with a brilliant 19-0 victory over Boswell, the Somerset County League football champions. All three touchdowns were scored in the first half.

Somerset tied Homer Center, a newcomer on the sports schedule, 8-8 before a Parent's Night crowd, after coming from behind in the second half to almost win the game.

A 12-12 tie with Westmont highlighted the first Homecoming of Somerset High. The Eagles recovered from a twelve point half-time deficit on two touchdown passes thrown by quarterback Randy Cober.

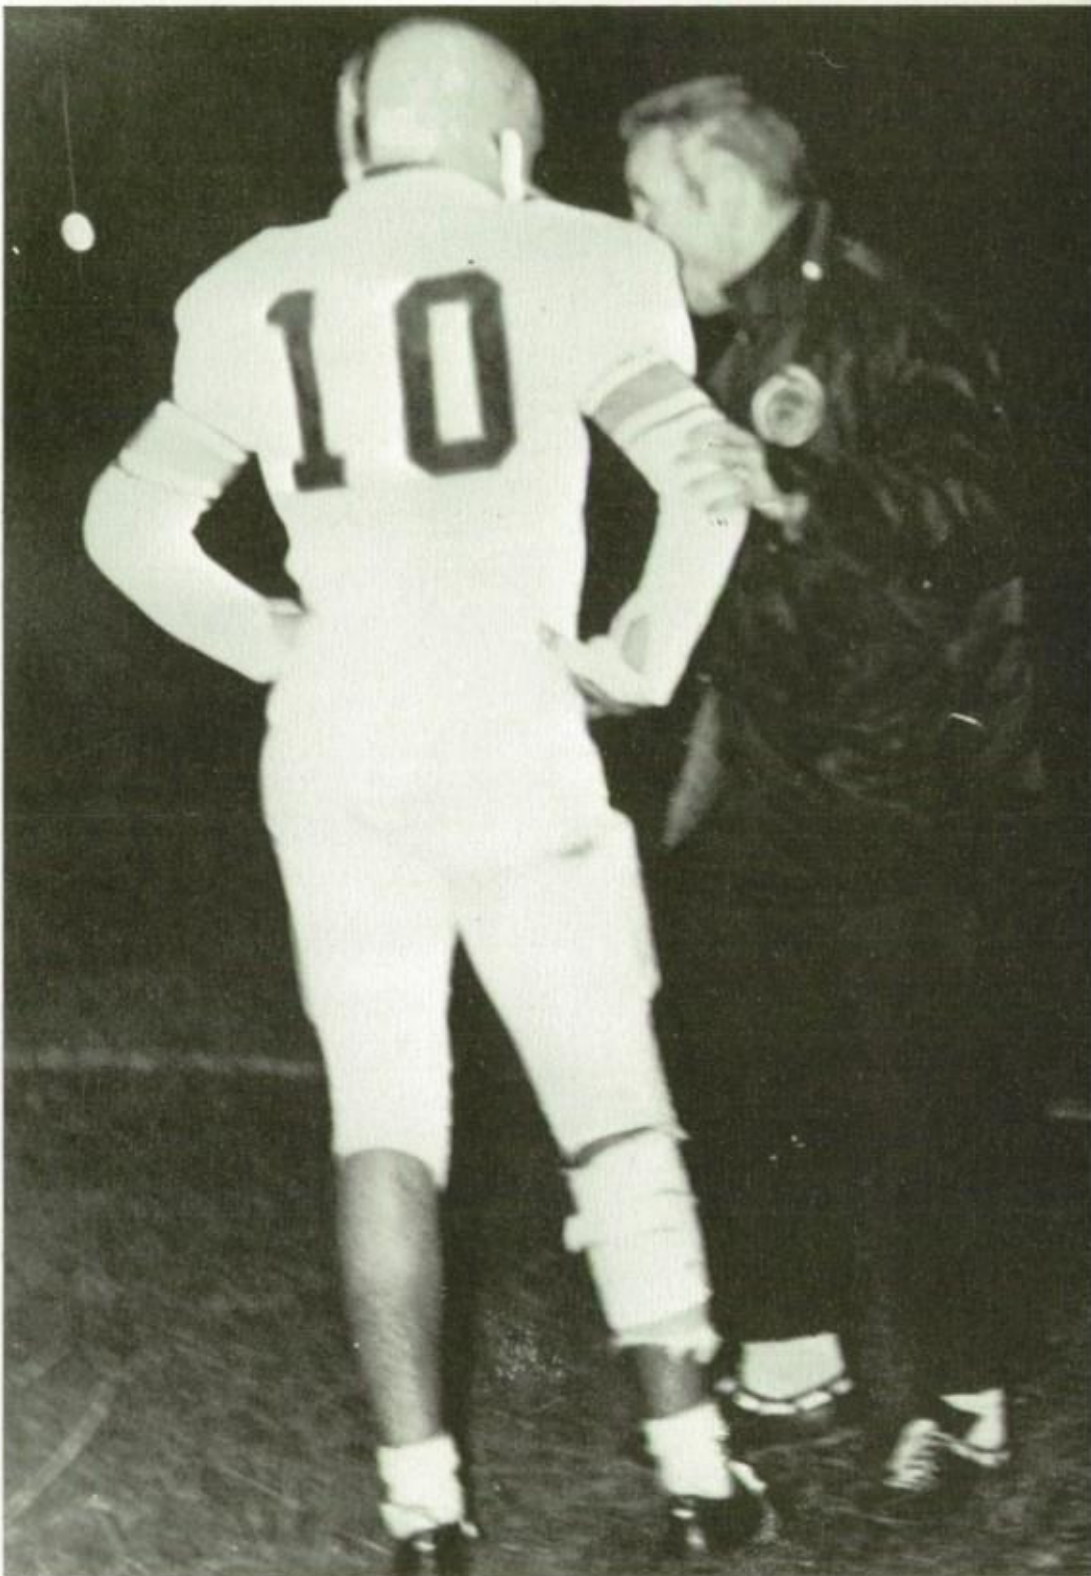

The season finale with Conemaugh Area ended in a 32-14 loss. The Indians chalked up twenty points in the second quarter for the margin of victory.

Coach Weaver summed up the season by calling it rewarding in the sense that the team never gave up, even though they lost five games, but very frustrating, because the team never seemed to be consistent and got more than their share of bad breaks.

Golf, paddleball, basketball and handball filled the boys intramural schedule, while the girls participated in a basketball program. In paddleball and handball, eliminations began in each individual gym class. The best then participated in a double-elimination tournament before school to determine the overall winner.

The boys' basketball tournament was held Saturday mornings, while the girls played their games after school.

Slot, Posts Five Wins

Interscholastic golf changed from a spring sport to a fall event this school year. Mr. James Monroe replaced the coaching spot left vacant when Mr. Garvin Kissinger stepped down after the successful spring season. Both the spring and fall teams had good weather for matches and had ample time to practice for their action. Practices and all home matches took place at the Somerset Country Club.

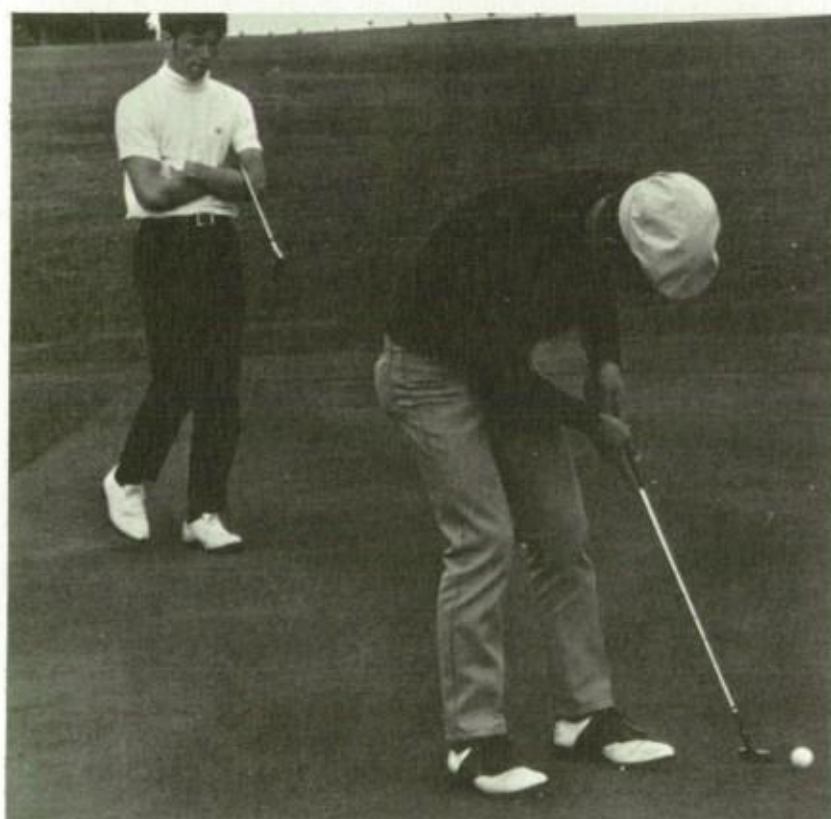

Somerset's 1968-1969 team won six matches and lost four, including two losses to a strong Bedford team. The team took third place honors in District V competition, where Randy Cober placed eighth and went on to the State finals at Penn State University.

The 1969-1970 squad lost two lettermen due to football, but new faces on the team provided the punch needed for five victories and four defeats. Dan Riggs led the team in total points with 21½.

Two lettermen, one a freshman, will provide the backbone for next year's squad.

Duties As New Head Coach Of Basketball Team

Mr. James Monroe assumed the responsibilities of head basketball coach for 1969-70. He had the task of initiating a new type of offense and defense around a squad of twenty. Bad breaks and the inability to win close games contributed to a disappointing record of 7 wins and 15 losses.

Somerset started the season with a victory over Rockwood. The team, after winning two out of the next four, then slumped into an eleven-game losing streak. In seven of those games the Eagles were in contention for victory until the final buzzer. Finally Somerset began to put everything together, winning four of the next six games.

Under Mr. David McCall the junior varsity completed a six and sixteen record.

During the close Johnstown game, Coach James Monroe gives Mark Martz some on-the-spot instructions.

With the coaching of Mr. James McCall and assistant Mr. Ray Shaulis, the Somerset wrestling team compiled a record of six wins and six losses. The varsity team was comprised mainly of seniors, with Clark Gross and Brad Winters serving as co-captains.

At the annual Christmas tournament held at Cone-maugh Area, Somerset placed four individual champions while losing the team trophy to Chestnut Ridge by one point. The four tournament champions were Eugene Bar-ron, Clark Gross, Barry Mapes and Brad Winters.

Somerset's varsity recorded one shutout by thumping Hyndman 57-0. In the match half of the Eagle matmen recorded pins.

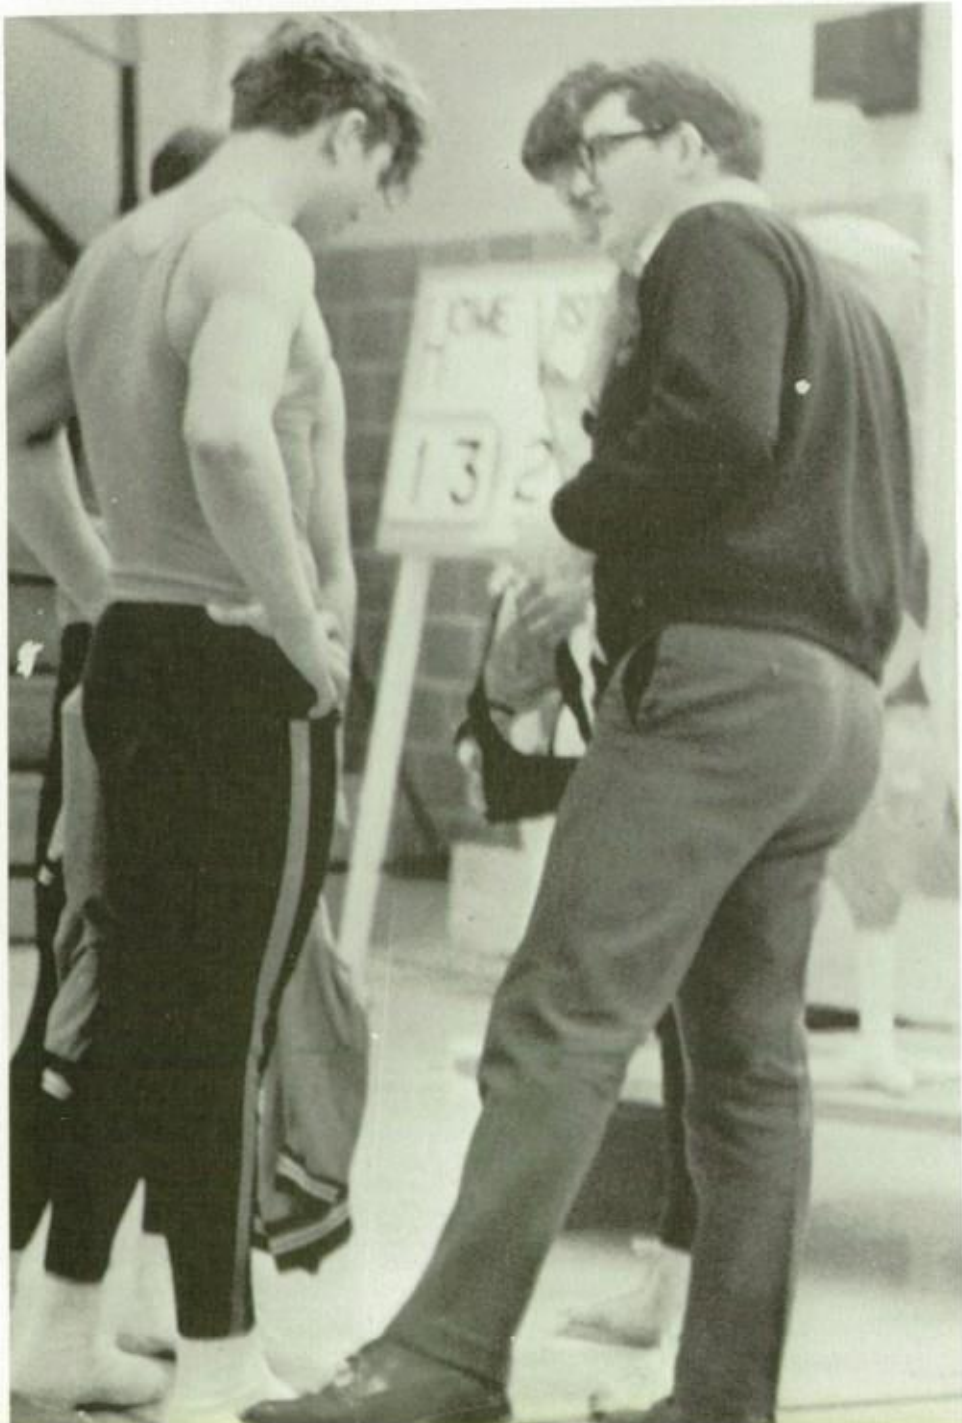

The junior varsity enjoyed a very successful season, compiling an outstanding record of ten wins and two losses.

District V Championship Climaxes Winning Season

Greg Zearfoss warms up before the Rockwood Meyersdale meet.

In the Somerset County meet Craig Custer shoots for a new broad jump record.

Nine seniors supported by twenty underclassmen took the 1969 track team through one of its most successful seasons in recent Somerset history. Guided by head coach Richard Collier and assistant coach James Pfrogner, the Eagle cindermen were victorious in five of ten meets, with two second-place finishes.

Senior Randy Urban established new school records in the high hurdles three different times during the season.

Somerset's track season was highlighted by the team victory in the annual Somerset County track meet. The Eagles finished thirteen points ahead of their nearest rival, Conemaugh Township. The most important victory of the season came at the District V meet held at Davidsville. Somerset placed first out of the twelve participating schools. This broke the hold that Windber had had on the title for the past years.

At the conclusion of the season Head Coach Richard Collier announced his retirement after serving fifteen years in this capacity. James Pfrogner received the appointment to head the 1969-1970 squad.

Gym Team Shows Improvement Over Last Year

Coach Edward Joseph gives Neal Parker and Dean Hottle last minute instructions before the next event.

Somerset's 1969-1970 varsity gymnastics team participated in interscholastic competition for the second straight season. This year Somerset hosted its first triangular meet with Altoona and Rochester on January 19th. Six other dual meets made up the remainder of the season.

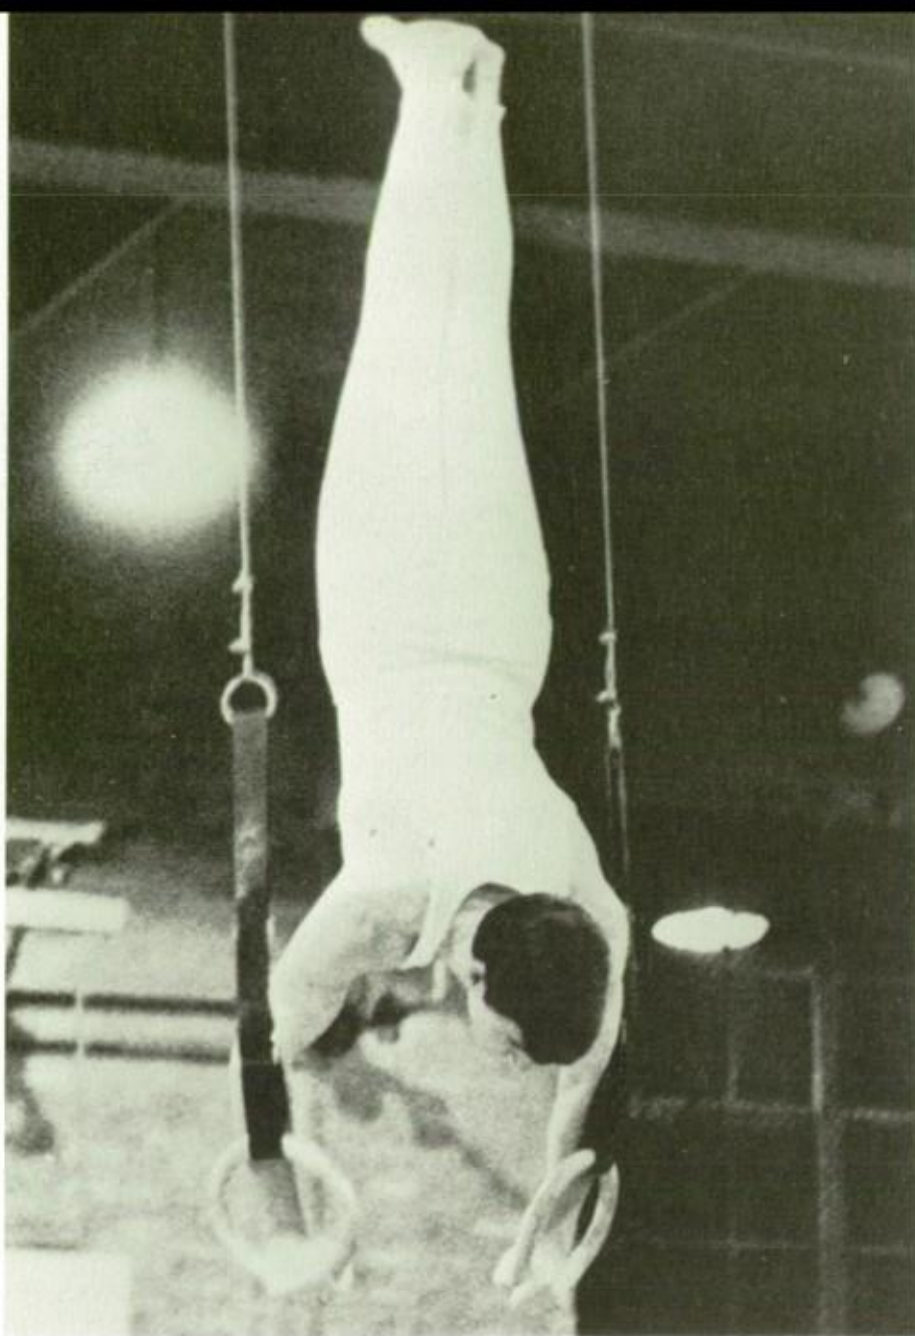

This year's team consisted of thirty-two members, all of whom were underclassmen.

Coach Edward Joseph stated that the team showed great improvements in all areas of competition: free exercise, side horse, parallel bars, vaulting, still rings and high bar.

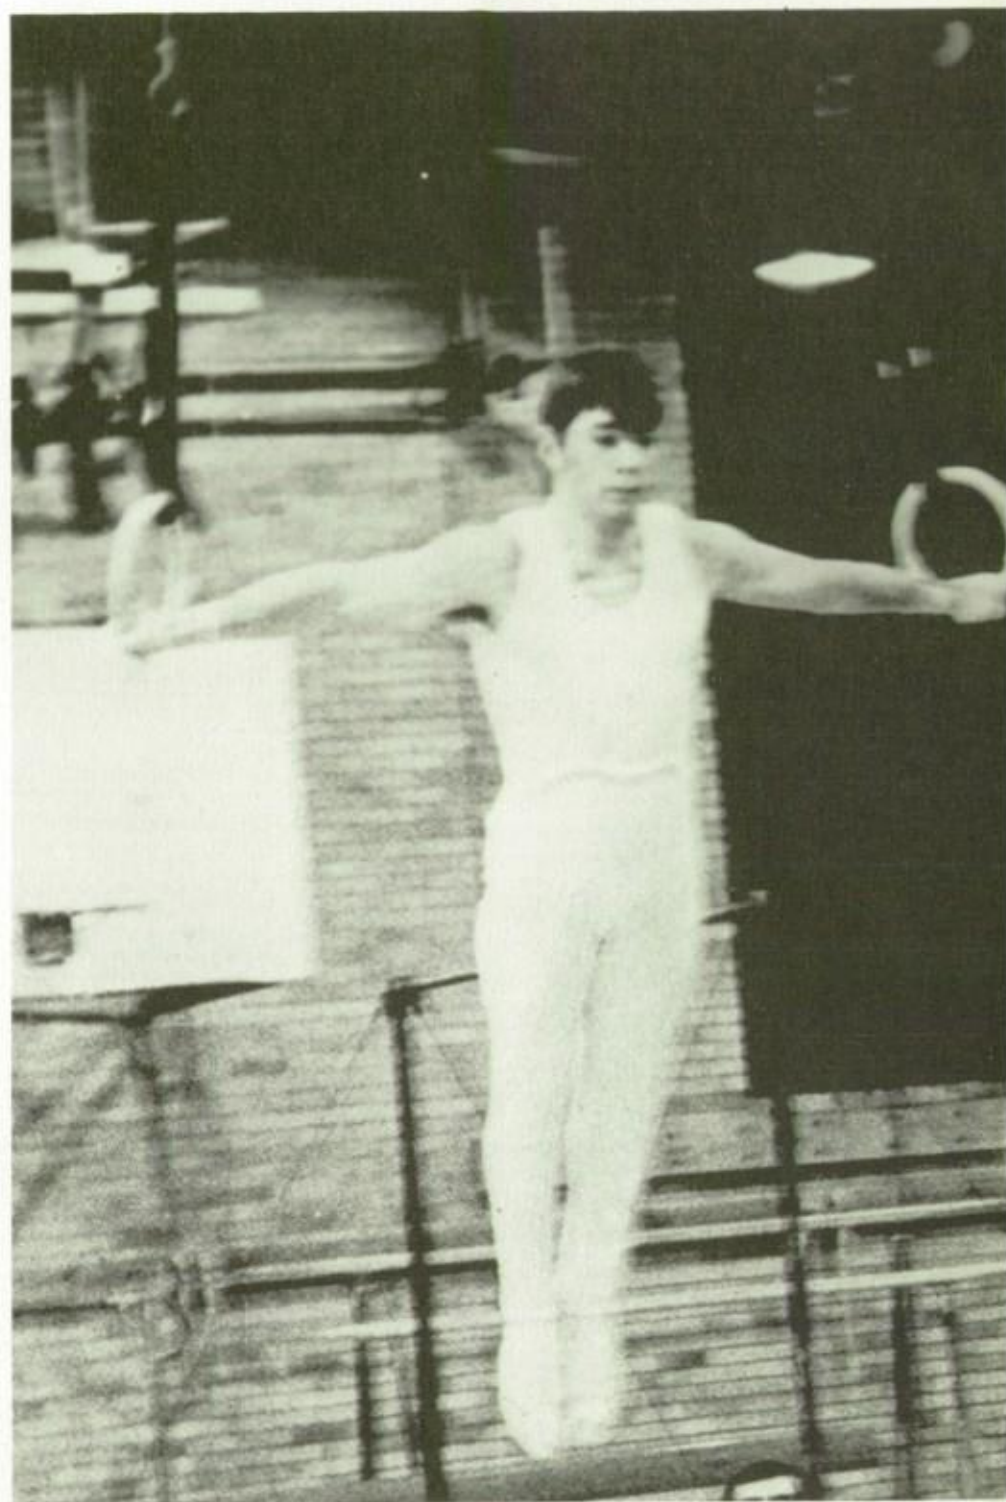

Somerset closed the season by participating in the District Meet at Altoona on February 21st and the Regional Meet at Butler on February 28th. The State Meet was held in March at Neshimany.

Clubs Take Active Role

Under the guidance of Mr. Thomas Brown, the Student Council represented the students' interests in many affairs. They purchased a water fountain for the school and sponsored a Valentine's Day Dance in February for the student body. Hall Monitors were also recruited from Student Council members.

Mrs. Bettyjane Steiner directed the Ski Club. Skiing lessons for its members were sponsored at Hidden Valley. Skiing trips to other resorts were also taken by the club.

The new gym teacher Mrs. Jean Gerber directed the Pep Club this year. They added school spirit at sports events with posters and programs. A Christmas Dance, sponsored jointly by the Ski and Pep Clubs, was held December 12 in the junior high gym. Committees from each club were chosen to decorate.

Library Club was advised by Mrs. Finnette Egolf. Each member assisted in the library one period every week.

The Press Club aided "The Eagle's Echo" by reporting junior high news and selling papers.

Adding to the spirit of Christmas, Student Council members J. P. O'Connor, Carol Hurd, LeAnn Trimpey and Ann Shellenberger decorate the Christmas tree in front of the office.

Adviser Mr. Brown with Student Council Secretary Becky Ankeny, President Dan Mickey, Vice-President Margie Martz and Treasurer Kim Qualters discuss the group's candle sale campaign.

Musical Performances Highlight Year's Activities

Student talent was displayed in the junior high orchestra, band and chorus during the annual Christmas and spring concerts.

The sixty-five member orchestra composed of eighth and ninth graders was under the direction of Mr. Arthur Pepe. Susan Poorbaugh, Douglas Weicht, Eric Beech and Jo Ann Pacifico were selected to attend District Orchestra, held February 19-21 in Somerset. Fifteen members appeared with the Senior High Orchestra in tours to county schools and in the spring concert.

For the first time, Mr. Robert Griffith directed two bands, one composed of seventh graders and one of eighth and ninth graders. The bands participated in the Homecoming, Halloween, and Christmas parades. The stage band, organized last year, was active once again this year.

Junior high chorus, yielding a great deal of enthusiasm and talent, worked under the direction of Mr. John Dice, with the assistance of Accompanist Douglas Weicht. Selected freshmen performed throughout the year in the Girls' and Boys' Octets.

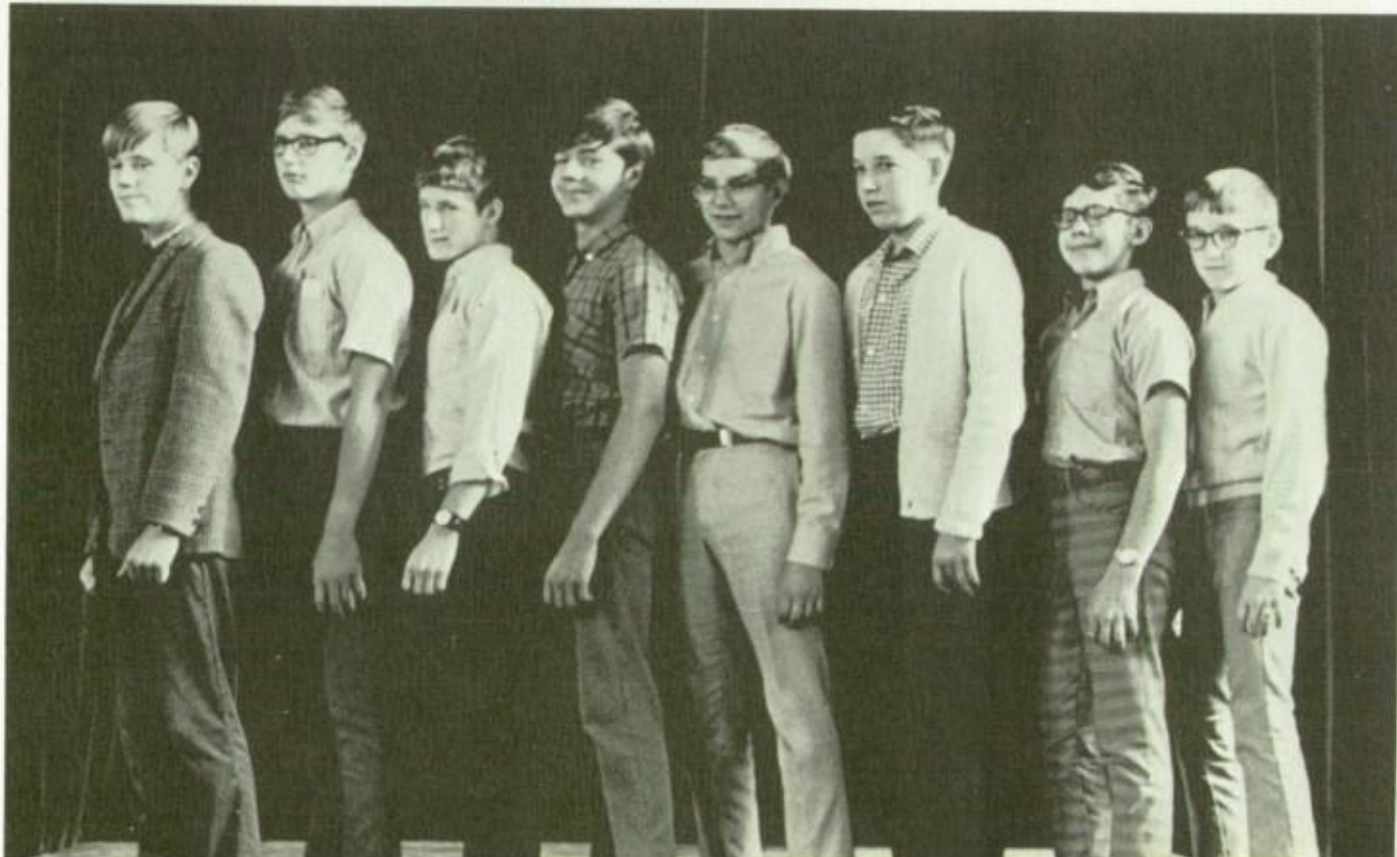

Tim Hartzell observes Mr. Griffith demonstrate the best way to produce a full tone from the tympani.

First chair members Eric Beech, Jolene Miller, Douglas Weicht, Susan Poorbaugh, Craig Sprack, Bob Dice and David Weigle check their pitch before band rehearsal.

The Boys' Octet, consisting of Tom Singer, Kenneth Hoffer, Benson Casteel, Bob Dice, Tim Hartzell, Dan Mickey, Douglas Weicht and John Ross displayed special vocal talent throughout the year.

Majorettes for the 1969-1970 school year, Cindy Shafer, Cheri Young, Barbara Wheeler, Tracey Beal, Michelle Mosholder, Susan Yancey, Brenda Beal, Ann Hay and Sally Boxler, led the band in many parades and some home football games.

Majorettes, Cheerleaders Contribute Enthusiasm

Cheering their teams to victory and twirling before the band, the cheerleaders and majorettes added pep and vigor to junior high activities. Under the leadership of Captain Susan Hughes and Adviser Mrs. Jean Gerber, the cheerleading squad urged the teams on to victory with a variety of cheers. They were on hand at all home games and some away games to boost school and team spirit.

The majorettes, headed by Michelle Mosholder and advised by Mr. Robert Griffith, highlighted the band with their carefully planned and executed routines. They led the band at home football games and performed in the Halloween, Christmas, and Homecoming parades. There were two groups of majorettes this year. One group performed with the seventh grade band and the other with the eighth and ninth graders.

Cheerleaders (back) Diane Walker, Barbara Higgins, Joanna Oline, Amy Auman, Margie Martz, Melody Trent, Cindy Welker (front) Martha Grice, Debbie Benedict and Anne Martz spurred the Little Eagles to many victories.

"Rah! Rah! Rah!" scream the student body and cheerleaders at a pep assembly before a home game.

Intramural Competition Includes Various Sports

Intramural sports proved to be great fun for both the girls' and boys' gym classes this year. Volleyball, table tennis, basketball and track were a few of the competitive sports played. Intramurals added spark to the physical education program as well as encouraging good sportsmanship in competition. A volleyball match between the boys and the girls was one of the highlights of the year.

The 1969-70 season was a rewarding one for the Somerset Area gymnastics team. Somerset hosted a triangular meet with Rochester and Altoona, a first for Coach Edward Joseph's boys. Dual meets held throughout the season also provided experience in competition. The junior high squad was composed of thirty-two boys, four of whom were returning lettermen. Areas of competition were parallel bars, vaulting, free exercise, high bar, still rings and side horse.

Team Blanks Shade 30-0 In Victorious Season

A giant leap by little hoopster Doug Thomas secures the ball for Somerset in the opening moments of the game.

"It's the best group I've had in the three years I've been here," remarked Coach James Clay of his 1969-70 junior high basketball team. The little hoopsters proved his words with hard fought wins and losses. A 50-39 victory over Bedford started the season, with a loss to Keith following shortly. In January the team advanced into Western Division Inter-County League competition. Somerset battled with five other schools and ended in the league. Ending the season with a win over Westmont, the team looks forward to another rewarding year.

Little Cagers Compete In Inter-County League

The junior high football team, coached by Mr. Joseph Maslak and assistant Mr. Blaine Baker, experienced an exciting season. The Little Eagles started with an impressive 14-6 victory over the Bedford Bisons. After a disappointing loss to Everett, Somerset gathered spirit, only to lose to a larger Joseph Johns team. The Indians from Conemaugh Area blanked Somerset 16-0, but the following week the Little Eagles clinched a victory over Shade. Ending the season, Somerset suffered a heartbreaking 20-0 shut-out to Garfield. Although the season was trying, Mr. Maslak was pleased with the boys' efforts.

A touchdown by Ben Casteel puts the Little Eagles another six points ahead of Shade.

Wrestlers Cop Second Spot In Mt. Conference

Under first-year coach Mr. John Baraniak, the Little Grapplers started a promising season with a 53-12 victory over Penn Cambria. By completing a five win two loss season, the Little Eagles were rewarded with second place in the Mountain Conference. Co-captains Bill Meyer and Tom Singer assisted the squad of seventh, eighth and ninth graders. Somerset boasted only one undefeated member, Brian Hottle in the 130-pound class. However, three other team members experienced only one defeat. With the great success of the squad this year, there are bright hopes for next year.

Little Eagles' Efforts Produce Winning Season

Under the management of Coach David McCall, the 1969 track team ended an exciting season with the Junior Eagles scoring three victories and only one loss. In the annual Somerset Junior High Invitational Meet, Somerset placed third, a scant 1½ points from second-place Richland.

Outstanding performers were Bill Griffith and Gunter Stehr in the hurdles and dashes; Jody Pyle, Chuck Crimone and John Schrock in the dashes; Alan Shockey and Jack Wagner in jumping events; Jack Pensiero and Bob Dice in the pole vault; and Bill Peters and Brad Brant in the shot-put and discus.

With the experience the eighth graders acquired, the team looks forward to the 1970 season.

Bob Dice practices his form in pole vaulting for an upcoming meet.

Bounding over the hurdles, Bob Mayer and John Schrock use winter practice for spring perfection.

The track team members for 1969 were (top) Rick Greig, Brad Brant, John Stanczyk, Mike Baker, Robert McGee, Elwood Friedline, Keith Taylor, Tim Stouffer, (fourth) John Jacobs, Tim Thompson, Gunter Stehr, Brad Cober, Doug Thomas, Jim Thomas, Dave Smith, John Schrock, Grant Holsinger, (third) Don McDonald, Jim Ogle, Bill Meyer, Alan Shockey, Joe Barbera, Jerry Barron, Chuck Crimone, Tom Durst, Bob Dice, (second) Bob Mayer, Tom Singer, Ben Casteel, Brad Whipperman, Dave Sizemore, Alan Pile, Jack Pensiero, John Ross (bottom) Jack Wagner, Craig Shaffer, Roger Lee, Tim Drake, Bill Griffith, Rick Howard, John Kimmel, and Coach David McCall.

So many cherished memories of an unforgettable year are stored in our minds. Unforgettable to each in his own way. Younger spirits are kindled for next year's return to answer the challenge of learning, experience, growth.

So many familiar sounds, now heard by some for the last time. However, for those who have reached the end of their high school careers, this is not the end. Educated, equipped and eager, they hear a new sound — the sound of the future. It summons them. They follow. This is only the beginning . . .
